OPENING WEEK EVENTS START AT THE CASTLETON

WOMAN FLIERS' PLANE MAKES SECOND FALSE START

Fliers Return Because Plane Fails To Rise

Load Of Gasoline Too Heavy Is Belief Of Fliers

PLAN TO MAKE ANOTHER START

Conference With Builder Of Plane Is Called As Start Fails

(International News Service)

OLD ORCHARD, Me., Oct. 22.—Shortly after taking off early today on an attempted non-stop flight to Copenhagen in her plane "The Dawn", Mrs. Frances Grayson returned to the starting point.

"We just could not make her rise," was Mrs. Grayson's explanation of her second false start across the ocean.

Shortly after the plane containing Mrs. Grayson, Wilmer Stultz, her pilot, and Brice Goldsborough, navigator, had been lost to sight, it again appeared, flying low.

It headed straight for the beach here and when a little off shore settled on the water and began circling about.

Stultz then let down his landing gear and brought "The Dawn" back into the hangar. Climbing out of the plane, Mrs. Grayson said:

Could Not Make Plane Rise

"We were going down wind all the time and we just could not make her rise. I believe we had too much of a load; you see, we had 921 gallons of gasoline aboard. This is more than we've ever carried."

Mrs. Grayson added that they had reached a point about 2 miles beyond the Cape Elizabeth lightship when they noticed that "The Dawn" would not climb. They then decided not to take the risk of going further.

Most of the way out to the Cape Elizabeth lightship and back "The Dawn" was almost skimming the water. The wind was from the south southwest quarter, just the wind Mrs. Grayson had been waiting for to aid in lighting the heavy load of between eleven and twelve thousand pounds.

Lands On Water

"The Dawn" was so close to the water in coming toward the beach that Pilot Stultz found he could not make a landing without digging the nose into the sand, so he skilfully made a landing on the water. The cabin was sprayed by the waves.

Undaunted, Mrs. Grayson ordered another supply of gasoline for part of the supply on "The Dawn" had been dumped by Navigator Goldsborough.

This was the second false start of "The Dawn". Last Monday she was "down by the nose" with gasoline in the forward tanks and had to return in less than a quarter of an hour after the take-off. The load was equalized and then followed a long wait for a favorable west southwest wind.

Igor Sikorsky, builder of the plane, and other aviation experts here went into conference to devise some way of getting the plane into the air. One plan was to reduce the gasoline supply. This would permit only a flight to England. Mrs. Grayson said she would be satisfied if she could span the ocean, refuel, and proceed to Cop-

Will, in Plane, Chasing Wolves Across Wyoming

(Special To The News)

LAS VEGAS, N. M., Oct. 22.—Had the greatest kick flying this morning I ever had. All the way across Wyoming we chased wolves and antelopes. Will be home for dinner.

Left Tuesday morning, spent one night and half day in New York City, and back in Beverly Hills Friday afternoon. Have only been away three nights.

If you had left Los Angeles on the train at the same time I did you wouldn't even arrive there till Saturday morning, and boy, what pilots those air-mail babies are.

Lindbergh came from a great school.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

P. S.—This is Las Vegas. You will hear a lot of it when Boulder Dam is built. We just flew all over around it. It certainly should be built. The man that never saw it by air never saw it.

Henry J. Allen Also Believes Same As Fess

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Henry J. Allen, ex-governor of Kansas, still believes that "President Coolidge will be drafted for the nomination next year unless he does something about it."

He made this statement at the White House today in face of the President's recent verbal lashing of Senator Fess (R.) of Ohio and others who have refused to acept as final Mr. Coolidge's "do not choose to run" announcement.

"I am equally guilty with Senator Fess in believing that the President should be nominated" said Allen.

Republicans Get Together Friday Night

Over 250 Hear U. S. Senator Reed At Meeting At The Castleton

SUPPORT OF PARTY TICKET IS URGED

Chambers And Genkinger Also Make Brief Addresses At Meeting

Republican policies were defended and Republican voters urged to abide by the choice of the primary on Friday evening, October 21, when United States Senator David A. Reed addressed a crow of 250 Republicans of Lawrence county in The Castleton.

It was an auspicious gathering, one that outran the expectations of the committee in charge and was characterized by speakers as the "best Republican meeting here in years." The meeting was in charge of County Chairman Charles H. Young with several local speakers on the program.

Pennsylvania Penalized.

Senator Reed declared that Pennsylvania was penalized in the United States senate because of the constitutional provision giving two senators to each state. He said that this state has a populaion equal to 16 western and southern states and yet had but the same voting power as the smallest of the group. As a result any-

Chest Drive To Start On Monday

Nearly $47,000 Has Already Been Pledged For Chest

WORKERS ENTHUSE OVER PROSPECT

It will be a Community Chest drive the like of which New Castle has never seen before, which starts Monday morning, October 24, under the direction of Herbert Peairs of the General Organization company of Chicago.

An organization complete in every department will take the field and swell the $47,000 that already has been donated through the advanced gifts committees and the volunteer givers' week to the required total.

"Before the New Castle Community Chest drive has been somewhat of a failure, I believe," declared Mr. Peairs, "and I believe that this was caused by the lack of heart interest. Before the work was merely mechanical, but now we have an organization which will function well, for the success of each agency in the drive depends on the agency itself.

"Each participating agency is responsible for the following team organizations: Four members of the advanced gifts committee, one division leader, three team captains, 21 team workers, making a total of 29 workers.

"In addition, each team must have two team workers in reserve, besides the seven workers required—a total of six reserve workers in each of the divisions.

"A system of rating, fair and equal for all has been adopted. The plan is thoroughly sound and has been tested through experience. The responsibility for producing the necessary workers depends on the participating agency, and the amount of money that each agency receives at the close of the drive depends largely upon the number of workers in

Myron T. Herrick Ready To Resign Diplomatic Post

American Ambassador To France Reported Asks Coolidge To Relieve Him

ILL HEALTH IS HELD AS CAUSE

Secretary Of War Dwight Davis Has Eye On Important Diplomatic Post

(Copyright, 1927, by International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Myron T. Herrick, American ambassador to France at the start of the World War, and who returned to Paris in 1921, has signified to President Coolidge his desire to be relieved of his post as soon as the administration can conveniently choose his successor, it was learned here today.

Advancing years and ill health have been ascribed as the causes. Ambassador Herrick returned from France in mid-summer and since that time has undergone two operations. His recovery has been slow and his general condition is such that he had

WILL EXCEED $10,000 MARK

Volunteer Workers Net $1,861 More For Chest On Friday

FAR AHEAD OF FIRST QUOTA SET

One check for $200, given by Dean's Auto Service company, and several $100 checks helped to swell the amount collected by the Volunteer Givers' Week workers at The Castleton booth Friday to $1861.

"The results so far are very gratifying," stated Herbert Peairs, director of the Community Chest Fund Drive this morning. "I am sure that the ladies will exceed the total of $10,000 which was set for this week. Originally, it had been planned to make the quota for Volunteer Givers' Week $5,000, but earlier in the week the results were so gratifying, and so much enthusiasm was being shown by the citizens of New Castle, that we decided to raise the amount, and I cannot say that we are sorry that we did so, because I am confident that today's committee at The Castleton booth, which is under the direction of Mrs. George T. Weingartner, will place the quota well over the top."

Ladies who worked on the Volunteer Givers' committee at The Castleton booth Friday are: Mrs. O. P. Brown, chairman, Mrs. David H. Long, Mrs. Robert K. Aiken, Mrs. John Foster, Mrs. E. Lee Boyles, Mrs. James Smith, Mrs. John Elder, Mrs. L. B. Martin, Mrs. Robert Tully, Mrs. C. F. Flannery, Mrs. Sam H. McGoun, Mrs. R. B. Jameson, Mrs. J. A. Bergman, Miss Jennie Morgan, and Mrs. James T. Ray.

Earl Carroll On Way To Broadway

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Bound for Broadway and the white lights again, Earl Carroll, New York theatrical producer, just released from Atlanta prison, passed through the capital early this morning.

Carroll's train stopped in Washington for barely a few minutes to allow a change of engines. The producer was in bed. A handful of newspaper reporters constituted the only welcomers to the capital.

MATCHES, CHILDREN; AND THEN FIRE CALL

The firemen were called to the home of Mary Panella, 1801 South Jefferson street, Friday afternoon about 4:20 o'clock by an alarm from box 58. According to Mrs. Panella, children had been playing in the room where the fire occured. She was under the impression that they might have had matches. A curtain at a window was set on fire and destroyed. The loss was about $10

BIG ASSET TO COMMUNITY

THE CASTLETON

New Castle's New 160 Room Community Hotel which is being formally opened for service with week's program, starting this evening.

What sort of a hotel is "The Castleton" is a question which might be asked by those who have not yet been inside of it. Looking at the picture of it, one is impressed with the simple dignity of it, the proportion of line and the pleasing lack of any ornate decoration. It stands out as an inviting place in which to stay, but what about the interior?

For those who have not inspected it perhaps a word tour through the building might aid them, although a personal inspection is urged to fully appreciate its beauty and utilitarian value.

Corner Falls and Mercer Streets.

The Castleton stands at the southeast corner of Falls and North Mercer streets, six stories above the street level, a picture in brick and stone. The main entrance is on Falls street, with another entrance on North Mercer street.

As one enters the lobby of The Castleton he is impressed with the quiet dignity of the appointments. Nothing garish is there, nothing extravagant, so well harmonized is everything that it projects an air of restfulness.

While the lobby is plenty large enough for the size of the hotel, it is not the old time "acre of marble" effected by hotels of years ago. It is designed to take care of guests in the hotel but not to invite chair warmers.

At the junction of the two entrances is the desk and telephone switchboard. At the end of the Mercer street entering hallway is the dining room and at the end of the Falls street entrance the auxiliary dining

Banquet Tonight Launches Program Of Opening Week

Hotel Men, Contractors, Newspapermen, Etc., Will Be Guests

TEAM WORKERS TO BANQUET MONDAY

Tuesday Is Inspection Day And Wednesday Formal Opening Occurs

Virtually completed in every department, The Castleton, the realization of the vision seen two years ago by 800 citizens of New Castle, stands ready to throw wide its doors to visiting hotel men, contractors, sub-contractors and newspapermen in the first banquet of the opening week, to be held this evening at seven o'clock.

In August, 1926, the first ground for New Castle's newest and finest hostelry was broken, and today it stands completed, the result of aid and co-operation of public spirited citizens of the community, citizens who should be highly complimented in doing their bit to make New Castle bigger and better.

Men and Women of Vision

It was no small job to raise the money for the hotel, as some of the team workers remember, but it has

Five Hundred At Father And Scout Banquet

Court Of Honor Ceremony Is Conducted Following Banquet

YOUTH OF TWELVE IS EAGLE SCOUT

Scout Movement In New Castle And County Gets Impetus

Almost five hundred persons were served last night at the Father and Scout banquet held in the First Methodist Episcopal church, and fifty others were disappointed because they could not get seats at the tables. And at the Court of Honor, held immediately after the banquet, 146 scouts received awards from the hands of the members of the court.

It was a large meeting, in fact, the largest father and scout banquet and Court of Honor ever to be held in Lawrence county. While the boys and their fathers were eating, they were entertained with selections rendered by the Croton avenue school band, under the leadership of Prof. Asa Hofmaster, and few harmonica solos by Charles Dungen of Troop 4.

Commends New Castle

William A. Hart of the General Organization company was the speaker of the evening and was introduced by John Dye, scout commissioner.

Mr. Hart spoke of the relationship of father and son, and commended the citizens of New Castle and Lawrence county on the fine spirit of comradship that they were showing in joining with their sons in this way.

"New Castle should be one of the first of the cities of America to have every boy of scouting age a scout, and it is up to the fathers of the boys to do their bit," Mr. Hart affirmed. "No

Burns Fatal To Uber Street Man

Young Man Burned While Repairing Auto Passes Away At Hospital

Joseph Caimano, aged 22, 413 Uber street, seriously burned Wednesday night while repairing an automobile at his home when his clothing caught fire, due probably to the backfiring of the engine of the machine, died Friday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock in the New Castle hospital, where he was removed following the accidental burning by H. Clare Stockman, assistant chief of the fire department.

At the time of the accidental burning it was thought that owing to the extent of the burns he could not survive and little or no hope of his recovery was entertained.

He was a member of St. Vitus church, also of the Loyal Order of Moose. He was employed at the New Castle Tin Plant and was well and favorably known.

He is survived by his step-father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Pasquale DeFelice; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Lombardo, 415 Uber street, and Rose DeFelice, 413 Uber street; also two brothers, Leonard Caimano, 413 Shadyside, and Sam DeFelice, 413 Uber street.

Funeral services will be held Monday morning in St. Vitus church and interment will be made in St. Vitus cemetery.

Asks For Report On Nicaragua Bandits

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The American legation in Nicaragua was instructed today by the State Department to send full information on reports that there is a wholesale uprising of alleged bandit groups in the northern part of the country.

Secretary of State Kellogg declared today that the 540 Nicaraguans who have been killed thus far in the marines' campaign of extermination were regarded as "outlawed bandits"

Important Fact Up For Ruling In Oil Trial

Judge Siddon's Decision Awaited At Reconvening Of Court Monday

Question Arises Over Admitting To Evidence Sinclair Testimony In 1923

By GEORGE E. DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The Fall-Sinclair conspiracy trial rested over the week-end while Justice Frederick Siddons meditated today over the question of admitting into evidence the testimony the oil magnate gave in 1923 to the senate committee that turned up the oil scandals of the Harding administration.

Owen J. Roberts, government counsel, is seeking to read to the jury Harry F. Sinclair's admission to the Walsh committee that during the Christmas holidays in 1921, he and his attorney, the late J. W. Zevely, went to the ranch of ex-secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall at Three Rivers, New Mexico, for the express purpose of "seeing him about Teapot Dome". Roberts considers this im-

Fire Damages Catholic Church

Bridgeport, Connecticut, Structure Suffers $150,000 Fire Loss

(International News Service)

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 22.—When fire swept through St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, here today, destroying the interior of the structure, injuring three men, and causing damage estimated at $150,000, the receptacle containing the blessed sacrament was saved by two curates and a policeman, who had entered the church at the risk of their lives.

Into the furnace-like interior of the church crept Rev. James O'Connor and Rev. John McTeague, curates, and Patrolman Robert C. Dunigan, who crawled the length of the structure to the altar. Guided only by the light of the flames roaring about them, the three men found a blazing hole where the alter had been. Some distance down the main aisle they found the blessed sacrament.

After leaving the church Dunigan collapsed in the vestibule. He was rescued and was revived later.

A defective heating flue is believed to have caused the fire.

Sends Message Of Appreciation

E. W. Morrison, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church in Moosic, Pa., in a letter sent to Mayor William H. Dunlap and received today, expresses his appreciation of the courtesies extended him and all the delegates to the recent State Sunday school convention. He takes special pains to express his appreciation of the kindness extended him by Officer James Wysner.

DEATH RECORD

Joseph Caimano, 22, 413 Uber street.
Mary Anderson, 29, city

Arthur Mometer

It used to be in those by gone days, when a fellow sought a wife, he found out first what she could do, ere he signed her up for life. Could she fry a steak, could she bake a pie, could she sew, and some other things, then the laddie stepped out to a jewelry store and bought him a pair of rings. And while she was glad if her looks were good, it made little difference withal, a mole on her nose or a wart on her hand was nothing to notice at all. But the lad of today has a different plan, its beauty he craves in a lass, and the fact that she can't boil an egg for his meal is a factor he's willing to pass. Can she dance, can she sing, is her bridge game alright, these are things that the laddie must know and he stops not to ask can she darn up his socks, ere down the preacher they go. For the baker is open, and beans come in cans, and a woman must know how to play, that's the modern young lad who is seeking a wife, its bright, sixty-three today.

WOMAN DIES SUDDENLY IN COUNTY JAIL

Mary Anderson, a young woman about 29 years of age, died suddenly in the county jail this forenoon. Miss Anderson had been committed to jail on October 14 by Mayor Dunlap, to serve a sentence of 30 days for visiting a disorderly house. She complained to other inmates of the women's ward that she was not feeling well several days ago. Jail physician Dr. F. E. Eakin was called and found her apparently suffering from a cold. He prescribed for her and when he last saw her on Friday evening about 5 o'clock she appeared to be getting along alright. She spent the night on a cot in a cell with several other women but made no complaint. This morning when the other women got up she said she would sleep awhile longer. The other women went out into the corridor.

About 10 o'clock when one of them went into the cell she found Miss Anderson apparently dead.

Sheriff Reynolds was summoned. Dr. Eakin was called and found that she was dead. Coroner Caldwell was called. It is believed that death resulted from the plugging of a blood vessel by a clot, known in medical nomenclature as Thrombosis. Very little was known about the young woman and an effort is being made to find her relatives. She is said to have a father and brother in New Castle or vicinity.

enhagen, another take off between 5 and 6 p. m. was under discussion.

Defer Takeoff

Finally it was decided that unless conditions were absolutely perfect late today another takeoff would be deferred until 7 a. m. Sunday.

Pilot Stultz balked at an evening take off, because he said it would mean two nights over the water. Every indication was "The Dawn" would not attempt to leave again until Sunday morning.

Stultz in safely bringing "The Dawn" back to the beach displayed unusual aviation skill. Stultz said:—

"We traveled about 20 miles. At times we were only six inches above the water. At no time were we more than thirty feet up. We were running about one hundred and twenty five miles an hour. I would not slow her up for fear of hitting the water nose on. We had to dump 260 gallons of gasoline to lighten her load. Several times we thought we were going to crash, but I finally got her back. When we take off again we will go back to our original load of 850 gallons of gasoline. We will probably start again Sunday morning, for what we want now is a little head wind off shore to give us a lift in sending the plane into the air."

IMPORTANA FACT UP FOR RULING IN OIL TRIAL

portant to his case as laying the foundation of proof Fall conspired with Sinclair to turn over the rich naval oil reserve to the latter without seeking bids in open competition.

The defense is fighting admission of the senate record under the statute which states that testimony given before a committee of either house of congress may not be used against the witness in any subsequent criminal action other than perjury.

No Protection.

Roberts and Martin W. Littleton, Sinclair attorney, argued that inasmuch as Sinclair had not pleaded such immunity at the time he appeared before the senate committee, he was not entitled to protection under the statute.

Siddon's decision is expected Monday morning when court convenes. Roberts has admitted his case "will be hurt" if the ruling is adverse to the government, but he is hopeful it will favor him in that he succeeded in reading the senate records to the jury in Fall-Doheny trial over similar objections.

yielded to the advice of friends and relatives that he should give up his post. He recently passed his 73d birthday.

No announcement has been made of the ambassador's decision and it is probable that none will be made until Washington is ready to announce at the same time his successor. Officially Ambassador Herrick is recuperating from an illness and expects to resume his post some time before the end of the year, but it is understood that if he returned to France at all it will only be to wind up his affairs there.

Candidates Aplenty

There is no dearth of candidates for the Paris embassy which, next to London, is considered the prize post in the American diplomatic service. It is partly for this reason that Ambassador Herrick's contemplated retirement is being kept as quiet as possible. President Coolidge does not wish to be embarrassed by a general scramble for the post.

One of the leading candidates, however, is now a member of the cabinet—Dwight W. Davis, secretary of war. Representations in Secretary Davis' behalf have already been made to the White House, although with what success has not been determined.

Davis is said to have long desired a diplomatic post. He is independently wealthy and is considered "available".

Another possible candidate is George Wharton Pepper of Pennsylvania, who retired from the Senate following his defeat in the Pennsylvania primary. Pepper, who was supported politically by the Mellon organization in Pennsylvania, also is considered "available".

The French post is considered a particularly difficult one at this time, owing to the numerous important problems confronting the two governments. The question of the French war debt settlement, as yet unratified by the French parliament, is by itself a problem of monumental diplomatic proportions. There is also the tariff dispute which will require extended negotiations before yielding to settlement. There are collateral problems of sufficient number and importance to make the Paris post a lively one for the next few years.

The state department declined today to either confirm or deny that Ambassador Herrick is slated for retirement shortly. It was said that Ambassador Herrick planned to go to Hot Springs in a few days for a long rest.

BANQUET TONIGHT LAUNCHES PROGRAM OF OPENING WEEK

been done, and to those who so generously contributed the credit should go, because they were men and women with vision; vision for New Castle.

Only the finest of all materials has been used in the construction of The Castleton, and today it stands on the corner of Falls and Mercer streets a silent tribute to those who made it possible.

Brilliant will be all the affairs that mark the opening week. Following the hotel men's, contractors' and newspapermen's banquet there will be a dinner given Monday evening to those who were workers when the campaign for the hotel was started. At the first meeting of the workers this was promised to them, and the directors in both the American Hotels Corporation and the New Castle Hotel Company see fit to make their promise good. It will be a notable affair, and entirely in charge of the workers themselves, headed by Howard B. Richards.

Inspection Date

Tuesday afternoon and evening the entire staff of the hotel, with many of the New York officers, will show the stockholders and their friends about the house on a tour of inspection which will last from four to 10 o'clock. A buffet lunch will be served in the coffee shop at the end of the tour.

Resplendent in the blaze of crystal chandeliers, the crystal ballroom will be thrown open to the guests at the formal opening banquet and dance Wednesday evening. This is to be one of the most scintillating openings which has ever taken place in this section of the United States, and it will be attended by many visiting dignitaries, as well as General J. Leslie Kincaid and Col. Olmstead of the American Hotels Corporation.

Festivities will begin at 6:30 Wednesday evening with a reception, followed by a 10-course dinner. Afterwards the ballroom will be cleared for dancing, and the best music that this section of the state has to offer has been engaged for the evening.

Thursday morning The Castleton will get down to regular hotel routine, the first public breakfast being served in the Georgania room, as the main dining room has been named. As with all other meals to be served at The Castleton, a full silver service will be used.

boy can do anything more worth while, since the scouting movement offers the boy the best of opportunities both for work and play.

Aids Community Chest

At the close of Mr. Hart's speech the New Bedford troop presented a check for $15 to the Community Chest fund drive, and Herbert Peairs, director of the drive, made a short speech of thanks, after which all adjourned to the Sabbath school room of the church where the court of honor was held.

Starting off the ceremonies, members of Troop 18 lighted the candles which surrounded the bench, at the same time repeating one of the points of the Scout Law.

J. Lee Calahan, scout executive, paid tribute to Charles McConell, a boy who had at the last two courts, been present to receive various awards, but who passed away several months ago.

He then told of changes in requirements for the different degrees, and promised that explanatory booklets would be mailed to scoutmasters and executives as soon as they could be prepared.

Awards were then presented by the members of the Court of Honor, the Rev. C. J. Williamson making the invocation, and stating that he was greatly pleased to see such an interest in scouting.

Awards Made

Forty three second class badges were presented to the boys of Lawrence county by Dan Reebie, member of the Court of Honor; 17 first class badges were presented to scouts by the Rev. A. M. Stump, while C. E. McGrath delivered 55 merit badges. W. C. Mechem conferred on the 12 boys qualifying for Star scouts their badges, and Charles Metzler awarded the eight Eagle scouts their badges.

William Wheeler, 12 years of age, was one of the recipients of the Eagle scout badge, and Mr. Calahan remarked that he is the youngest boy that the Lawrence county council has ever bestowed an Eagle scout badge.

John Dye, scout commissioner, then gave bronze palms, the highest award the scoutcraft has to offer, to James Metzler and John Stone.

In closing the meeting the Rev. Williamson declared that the greatest boy movement that he knew of was the boy scout movement, for it turned the natural energies of boyhood into real uses; it taught them things that never would be learned in any college or university, because it brought the boys into actual contact with life, with nature, and with God.

Members of the Court of Honor who sat at the meeting were Rev. C. J. Williamson, chairman, Delace Cole, the Rev. H. Davidson, the Rev. A. M. Stump, C. E. McGrath, W. C. Mechem, Dan Reeble, William Ayres, William Kerr, Harry Zeigler, Charles Metzler, John Dye, scout commissioner, and J. Lee Calahan, scout executive.

YOUNG PEOPLE TO MEET SUNDAY

dered by the orchestra directed by Albert Bauman, Jr. The principal address will be made Sunday evening by Dr. S. E. Irvine, pastor of the conference church.

Many young people have a part on the program of the day.

Forty Sunday schools and missions, bringing the total to approximately fifty-five organizations will be represented at the conference, it was announced today by T. J. Davies, superintendent of the Young People's Division in the New Castle district. It is expected that at least two hundred delegates will be in attendance. Superintendents of the schools and missions are urged to appoint delegates to be in attendance.

There will be a number of outstanding features. Attorney Roy Jamison, will welcome the conference in behalf of the Sunday school of the conference church at the opening session in the afternoon.

The roll call of Sunday schools will occur at four o'clock. One of the features of the evening will be the installation of officers, with Attorney Clarence Patterson, president of the New Castle district, as the installing officer.

The Young People's orchestra directed by Albert Bauman, Jr., will render selections during the conference. At the evening service, the church quartette will render special selections. It will be directed by David Hopkins and Mrs. Harvey Brenner will preside at the organ.

thing calculated to be to the advantage of Pennsylvania was almost certain of defeat.

He urged a continuance of a high tariff wall for the reason that American labor would suffer should the wall be removed. European wages are much lower than American he said and the other countries would be glad to flood this country with cheaper made goods if it were possible.

The direct primary he said was the work of reformers but that having secured the direct primary law they now would not support the choice of the party in the primaries if some personal reason entered into the case.

Support the Candidates.

He urged Republican voters to support the choice of the primary not alone for the success of the local ticket but for the reason that defections in local communities reflects upon the prestige of the party as a state unit. Senator Reed's address was well thought out and interestingly delivered.

Judge James A. Chambers, Republican candidate for election for the full term and Louis G. Genkinger, Republican candidate for mayor were called upon by Chairman Young and spoke briefly.

"All should support the entire ticket" said Judge Chambers. "I see no reason why we should not support the nominees for it was a clean primary."

Mr. Genkinger said that reports had come to him that if he were elected there would be a weakening of the enforcement of law in this city. He denied the stories vigorously and said that if he were elected he would strive to make New Castle a better place in which to live.

Following the dinner program there was a meeting of the Reception committee with all candidates in the lounge room of the hotel.

Dispute Holds Up Phone Installation

Due to a dispute between the electrical workers union and the Bell Telephone company in regard to the right to install the telephone service to the rooms of The Castleton, the telephone service throughout the hotel rooms will not be ready on the ocasion of the stockholders inspection Tuesday and the opening event on Wednesday. The installation of the telephones was started Friday by the Bell company and was stopped when the Building Trades council announced that painters and other union workmen would be pulled off if the Bell men continued on the job. It is said that the electricians are claiming the right to install the lines.

Earl Carroll Back In New York City

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Back to the city he left four months ago as a prisoner of the federal government, Earl Carroll, the treatrical producer, arrived home shortly before noon today.

Quiet, reserved and occupied with the sole thought of "putting myself right with Broadway," the producer stepped from the train as it pulled into the Pennsylvania station, and headed straight for his theatre, where the famous "wine bath party" which caused his commitment to prison on a perjury charge was staged.

"It's good to be back," Carroll said as he left the train.

"I'm going right to my theatre. I want to see if everything's the same."

CHEST DRIVE TO START ON MONDAY

attendance at each of the report meetings. The actual amount of money that each division secures in solicitation is of secondary importance.

"The point system has been adopted and each organization will be credited points for the following:

100 points for four members of the advanced gifts committee.
100 points for each division leader.
33 points for three team captains.
21 points for 21 team captains.
36 points for an advance gifts member at all meetings.
150 points for team organization at all meetings.
9 points for agency president present at all meetings.
6 points for agency president present at all team meetings.
100 points for each division securing their quota.
555 points is a perfect score.

"However, full credit for attendance will be given when a member is absent from a meeting for a good reason and someone else is substituted. But the man to represent the absentee must not be a member of the team of organization.

"In a like manner points will be detracted from the score of each division in the same manner in which they are added and an additional two points for each $100 in excess of the division quota will be added to the score of the division."

Aside from the city organization, for the first time in the history of the Community Chest, the whole of Lawrence county is being organized by officials of the drive.

So far, the following chairmen have been appointed: Mrs. Thomas Cooper, Harlansburg; Mrs. J. Weller McClymond, Rose Point; Mrs. Eakin, Hillsville; Mrs. Colin Campbell, New Bedford; Mrs. Charles Stevenson and Mrs. Robert Atkinson, joint chairmen of Harbor to the city limits, and Mrs. W. E. Ferver, Shenango township.

Today the organization committee is working in other parts of the county and it is to be expected that they will be organized today or Monday.

Report Eighteen Being Deported

(International News Service)

BUENOS AYRES, Oct. 22.—The Chilean government has deported eighteen prominent citizens including former President Alessandri, according to advices received here today. It is understood that the deportations followed discovery of an alleged plot for a coup d'etat.

The list of those who are understood to be leaving Chile today includes not only former President Alessandri but his four sons, Jorge Matto Gormaz, former foreign minister and numerous other former cabinet members.

One woman, Amanda Laboroa Hubertson, is understood to be among the deportees.

ARTICLES STOLEN FROM PARKED CAR

Ernest Thompson of Pulaski, a student in the Senior High school, reported to the police Friday evening, that while his machine was parked in the vicinity of the Senior High school on Reis street, that some unknown person stole his flashlight, his pocketbook containing sixty or seventy cents and his driver's license and a Hampden watch.

Fourth Note On Tariff Rates Is Sent To France

Coolidge May Increase French Tariff Rates 50% Because Of Discrimination

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Another note, the fourth since the tariff controversy arose, was sent to France today. This latest communication, it is understood, merely restates the American position and once again asks that all discrimination against American goods be removed.

Administration officials are showing increasing irritation at what they consider deliberate procrastination on the part of France in refusing to give the United States unqualified assurance that the discriminatory tariff rates will be set aside pending negotiations of a commercial treaty.

If the new note does not produce acceptable results, it was said at the state department, President Coolidge will be found ready to invoke Section 317 of the tariff act, which provides for a 50 per cent increase in the tariff on all goods coming from countries which discriminate against the United States.

In the note which is expected to go forward before tonight France will again be informed of the existence of Section 317, although it will be emphasized that this country does not wish to take retaliatory measures until all other reasonable means of settlement have failed.

The United States, state department officials explained, will be satisfied to let the discriminations which existed before Aug. 30 remain a matter to be settled by negotiations, but it will insist that the discriminations arising from the extension of favors to Germany and other countries by the treaty which became effective Sept. 6 be forthwith removed.

British Naval Forces Clash With Chinese

(International News Service)

HONG KONG, Oct. 22.—Further conflict between British naval forces and Chinese armed bands occurred today when the warship Curlew was the object of a rifle and machine gun attack from the shore, 41 miles above Wuhu.

The Curlew retaliated by firing her whole battery on the attackers.

Later two Chinese gunboats fired upon the attackers of the Curlew.

Morrow On Way To Mexican Post

(International News Service)

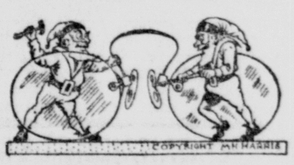

LAREDO, Tex., Oct. 22.—Dwight W. Morrow, newly appointed Ambassador to Mexico, passed through here today enroute to Mexico City to take charge of his post.

After breakfasting with Colonel F. H. Foy, commandant at Fort McIntosh, the ambassador, his wife and daughter crossed the international bridge at 9:45. His special train left Nuevo Laredo at 10:30.

His train carried a guard of federal troops from the southern capital.

OPENING OF "THE CASTLETON"

WITH the inauguration of a program of events lasting the greater part of a week the public introduction of "The Castleton," New Castle's magnificent community hotel, is launched this evening. The formal opening event, however, is set for Wednesday night when a great banquet and ball will feature.

Actual opening of this new hotel, one which represents the confidence and support of 800 local stockholders, and the achievement of a city program of some years past, gives New Castle an advantage that has long been desired, and needed.

New Castle has other hotels, good ones, but they have not been adequate to meet all the needs of this growing city.

A modern, up to the minute hotel, of size large enough to care for unusual floods of visitors, is one of the requisites of any American city of today that means to keep up with the procession. And it was with the realization that such a hotel was a crying need in this city, that the 800 men and women united their efforts to bring it into being.

The ultimate result—The Castleton—is even more than had been hoped for. New Castle now has a metropolitan hotel, equipped in every way to meet present day demands.

This new hotel with its 160 rooms for guests, dining rooms, ball rooms, and many other features is an addition to New Castle of far reaching importance. It will mean much to its development as a city, to the furtherance of social life, and to the enjoyment of its people, as well as providing a hotel that will attract hundreds to this city for stop overs who otherwise would have made Pittsburgh or Youngstown their destination.

The successful consummation of this hotel project fully demonstrates that when a worthy cause presents itself, the civic consciousness of this community can be aroused, and co-operation of a united citizenry be secured to bring about its accomplishment.

The Castleton is a wonderful asset to New Castle, and is second to none in beauty, comfort, and in detailed thoroughness of equipment. With the management that will be provided by the American Hotels corporation, and with the facilities, and equipment provided, there is assurred successful operation.

New Castle is moving steadily onward, and every person who has had any share in making possible this latest achievement —The Castleton—should feel truly gratified.

ELIMINATING A NUISANCE

STEPS recently taken by the post office department to put a stop to the nuisance created by firms mailing unordered goods on approval have apparently had the desired effect. If the nuisance has not been abated, there at least has been a lull the past month.

Postal authorities decided the public should be protected from the enterprising traders who have been flooding the mails with merchandise addressed to "customers" who never ordered it. The decision followed complaints from all quarters against these firms who ship unsolicited goods and expect the recipients to go to the trouble of returning them if the sales appeal fails.

But the post office department was also acting for its own protection. Many of the recipients of the unordered merchandise, growing tired of the persistency of the sellers, declined to acknowledge receipt of the goods either by payment, return or written refusal to do either. In these cases the senders called upon the department to trace the package. Growing weary of affording this costly tracer service, it finally ordered postmasters to refuse requests for large numbers of "tracer cards."

Thus has the post office ceased to be a collection agency for this business which annoys more than it serves and resorts to questionable sales methods to take away business rightfully belonging to local merchants. Legitimate houses sending goods to customers on approval have not suffered from the ruling, while the public has benefited greatly. It is aimed at concerns which mail large quantities to "sucker list" names on the chance that enough of the recipients will "bite" to make the business profitable.

There are those to whom "Be yourself" is the worst possible advice you can offer.

Thinking you know is never as important as knowing you think.

In Day's News

Thomas Ross Preston, who is slated to succeed to the presidency of the American Bankers' Association when that organization meets in Houston next week for its annual convention, is a banker of Chattanooga and one of the leading financiers of the South. While banking has been his chief business he has also been actively identified with numerous large industrial corporations of Chattanooga and vicinity and has been instrumental in bringing the South to the fore as a textile manufacturing center. Mr. Preston was born in Woodbury, Tenn., and was educated in the academy of his native place. At the age of 21 he began his career as a clerk in a Chattanooga savings bank. Scarcely fifteen years later he became one of the organizers and president of the national bank with which he is still connected.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 5:11. Sun rises tomorrow 6:20.

A man brought a Japanese newspaper into this office yesterday and showed it to us, thinking perhaps we could read it. We have never tried to follow the tracks of a wildcat, so could not do it.

That Pittsburgh lady who brutally slew her dear husband with a rolling pin was convicted of involuntary manslaughter. The lady wept when the jury returned the verdict. This verdict means that she did it and was probably sorry that she will have to go to jail for it.

It is getting so that people will ask for the loan of a couple of one's automobiles just as they used to ask for a chew of tobacco.

The Castleton Hotel, while not yet formally opened and in full action, is getting some wonderful compliments and those nice things are coming from people from other cities who know their vegetables when it comes to hotels. It is a great tavern!

A former actress now living in Montana and only married eight months, is asking for a divorce from her husband, and among other things says he is as wild as the scenery in that country. And brethren, that is going some for wildness.

A United States judge has quit his office because the liquor cases in his court are so numerous that he is overworked. He evidently does not get much punch out of handing out the sentences.

A lady out West who shot and killed her husband because she was afraid some other woman would get him got life imprisonment. Maybe before it is all over she will come to the conclusion that it would have been better if some other lady had stolen him some time before she plinked him. We are against all forms of husband murder because it sets a bad example for wives who would never think of such a thing if they did not hear about it.

That gentleman in Washington, D. C., who raised a family on $85 a month could make a fortune yet by just selling the rights of how to do it that way to many struggling families with not half that many kiddoes. We would like to hear what the various members of the family have to say on the subject, also.

In our garden now there is a hollyhock bush or plant, or whatever it is that hollyhocks prefer to grow on, about six feet high and it has quite a few blossoms on it. The plant is green as grass and is just like when hollyhocks are in their season and in their prime. This may not be strange, but we never had a hollyhock before that acted that way at this time of the year.

We may seem just as queer to other people as they appear to us. They might even think we were even more loony than we think they are.

A Misouri man owns a hen which lays a double egg once each week, while his wife presents him with a set of twins every year. Of the two, he thinks the hen is the most valuable.

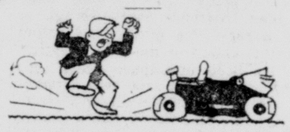

Over in Canada a man has a tomato vine that has 50 tomatoes on one stem. They must be mistaken and it surely is a grapevine. At least, we have grapevines here that have 50 grapes on one stem.

The Hints and Dints Man has received a letter from Walter E. Myers, secretary of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association. Among other things he says: "New Castle has set a mark that will be hard for any entertaining city to live up to. Delegates came to me and said, 'Mr. Myers, this is wonderful. You can't carry a bag; there is always a Scout there to do it. You can't walk; there is always someone there to take you in a car.' It was simply superb. I want to give my word of thanks in behalf of our board to all that contributed to make the convention the great success it was in New Castle. This sure pleases all of us, as that is just what we started out to make it.

Our idea of a day long to be remembered would be the one when a chap got out of jail.

A normal wife is one who thinks her husband is working too hard and not getting enough for it.

Rabbits in this vicinity are reported as suffering from a new disease called tularemia, sort of a fever that humans easily get when they even handle rabbits. We know we will not get that disease now. M-e-o-w!

Example of bad luck: Owning an old car, well insured. Leaving it unlocked. Finding it undisturbed.

A Boston professor wept when he heard that his wife had been murdered in Paris, where she was in a love cult convention. A Russian violinist was responsible for the demise of the lady and the grief of the Boston professor. Men should keep their wives away from love cults in Paris—in fact, they should not allow their wives to go to Paris alone at all.

A New York judge has ruled that prize-fight films can be legally displayed in any state. The interstate commerce commission has a rule which provides a fine of $1,000 and an imprisonment sentence for a violation of this rule. It will be interesting to see who comes out first best, the judge or the commission. Maybe New York is begging to get ready to run things, even before Al Smith is elected President.

If you are really and truly interested in New Castle drop your political activity long enough to help put the Community Chest over and you will be doing a real service rather than perhaps an injury to the welfare of New Castle.

Aboard the Train.
Infantile Paralysis.
The Real Killer.
What Will America Be?

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1927, By N. Y. American, Inc.

This is written on "The Chief," one of many splendidly equipped trains that carry passengers between the two oceans in perfect comfort.

How long will such trains carry the passengers? Railroad men that think would have asked themselves that question could they have seen Will Rogers, traveling as an air passenger, United States mail, roaring over and past the "fast" expresses, as the first locomotive left the old stage coaches.

Rogers paid $406 "postage" on himself from Los Angeles to New York. When the fast express had got well under way, and passengers had settled down for their four nights and a little more than four days coast-to-coast trip, Rogers was in Chicago. When they had gone through luncheon and dinner on their second day Rogers was in New York. By the time they reached New York he was back in California and remember that he was flying slowly, less than 100 miles an hour. Planes already built go 300 miles an hour. Men will soon make the trip from New York to San Francisco between breakfast and dinner time, as a matter of course.

When locomotives came, aged dodos said, "nothing will ever take the place of the stage coach for REAL, RELIABLE TRAVEL."

The first locomotive that made from 20 to 25 miles an hour killed the stage coach. What will the 300-mile-an-hour airplane do to long distance railroad passenger traffic?

Infantile paralysis appeared in the castle inhabited by five-year-old King Michael of Roumania. Immediately the king was carried away to the Carpathian Mountains.

That unfortunately does not mean safety for the baby king. Nobody knows how infantile paralysis comes, what causes it, or how it is implanted in the blood of its victim.

Infantile paralysis should interest government, national, state and municipal, more than it seems to do. There are 4,000 cases in the United States now. Nobody knows how the disease starts and spreads. The disease breaks out, nobody knows how or why, in dark city streets and in distant sunlit beautiful valleys, more than thousands of miles from either ocean, and five thousand feet above them.

Such a mysterious disease among swine or cattle would be investigated and fought by the government energetically.

The Rockefeller Institute is doing admirable work, but a nation of 115,000,000 should not leave such a fight to the generosity of one man.

Young Wilfred Winters got drunk on moonshine whisky, killed two young women, then killed himself. His grandmother says "before God it was not my grandson that did the killing, but the man that sold him the whisky."

The murder of those girls and the young man's suicide were caused by bootleggers of course. The chief assistant in the killing was a government too feeble to enforce prohibition, too cowardly to admit that it cannot enforce it.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, head of Columbia College, calls prohibition responsible for crime, immorality and drunkenness among children, and says Republicans and Democrats must take a definite stand on prohibition in 1928.

Senator Borah, old-fashioned American, thinks prohibition ought to be enforced, and demands that Republicans and Democrats take a definite stand on prohibition in 1928.

But Republican and Democratic politicians believe in being elected, first, last and all the time, if possible. And they WILL NOT take a definite stand on prohibition in 1928.

What is America, as regards its people, what is it destined to be?

Indians were here first, Columbus came, then the Pilgrim Fathers, determined to worship God as they pleased and to make everybody else worship him as they pleased. They would not recognize today's populations. The city of Chicago contains 450,000 Germans, 400,000 Poles, 300,000 Jews, 300,000 Irish, 200,00 Italians, 200,000 Bohemians and Czecho-Slovaks, 125,000 Swedes, 50,000 Norwegians, and 50,000 Greeks. Not exactly what you would call "pure Nordic."

"What type, what civilization will come out of that mixture?

MOVIES ARE MOVIES

At least they ought to be. I speak only for myself, but as far as I know I am reflecting the opinion of almost every semi-intelligent person I know when I say that we go to a picture house to see a movie and not to see vaudeville.

The vaudeville I suppose is all right in its place. People that want to see girls show their alluring forms and to hear songs that nobody understands and to listen to music that is the same thing over and over, no matter what tune they call it, have a right to do so.

But I belong to that large number of people that want to see a picture. I don't care for vaudeville.

It is the custom nowadays in very many houses, especially the larger ones, to put in a lot of vaudeville stunts, so as to get people to come to the show. They may be right in this, probably the men that run the theater know more about it than I, but I want to put in one vote against the idea. I don't want to see some mountebank perform on the tight rope and I don't want to see any acrobats. I want to see a picture and I carefully inquire what time the picture begins and closes so as to time my visit accordingly. Usually my informant at the theater does not know when the picture begins, but generally tells me wrong, so I usually have to sit through a half hour of vaudeville waiting for the picture to begin.

I am a movie fan. I enjoy a movie and I don't want it mixed with anything else. I have an idea the theater managers are mistaken and that people that want to see vaudeville can go to a vaudeville house and look at it, but that most of the people that come to a moving picture house want to see a picture.

I met a moving picture director the other day who told me the moving picture business was falling off, and that the management was putting in vaudeville to get the people to come.

You can set me down for one vote against the vaudeville and I know several people that will vote with me. Cut it out and give us the straight picture and you will earn our undying gratitude.

"Little Jack Horner,
Sat in a corner,
Eating his Christmas pie;
He stuck in his thumb,
Pulled out a plum,
And said 'What a great boy am I!'"
—Mother Goose Rhymes.

Who was Jack Horner? That might seem to be a foolish question, as though Mother Goose Rhymes were based upon facts and figures. But Jack Horner was a real Englishman. He worked for the Church and was the steward of the temporalities of the great Somerset Abbey of Glastonberry. That was away back before Henry the Eighth divorced the Church of England from the Church of Rome. There is a record in the Abbey of the story that at the dissolution of the Monasteries by Henry "Jack Horner" did put his thumb into a certain pie—the "pie" happening to be the box which contained the title deeds to the Manor of Wells. The Manor was the "plum" that Jack Horner pulled out of the "pie"; and by clever manipulation he made himself thereby the owner of a large slice of the monastic lands. (Henry always did admire a clever schemer).

Sir John Horner, the Lord Manor of Wells, and the direct descendant of the first John Horner, died recently in Somerset at the age of 84. The property had never passed out of the family. Wells Park has been in the Horner family for more than 500 years, and the eldest son has always carried the Christian name of John.

Those who come to her with deeds.

In the village walks the boy
All tomorrow's men may cheer;
And his neighbors shall enjoy
Telling that he once was near.

Bethlehem was lost to fame
But for that eventful morn
Mary to the stable came,
Where the Son of God was born.

None can say and none can tell
Where the great souls come to birth;
In a tenement may dwell
One who may uplift the earth.

Fame knows neither birth nor town,
Time nor ancestry nor creeds;
All the glory of renown
Follows where achievement leads.

"THAT POOR BLIND GUY"

Julius Jonas is a man I like. He sells life insurance, and you know how people often dodge life insurance salesmen, because most people do not like to run the risk of insuring their survivors against poverty, in case of their death.

Well, I have hunted up Jonas, and imposed myelf upon him just to hear him talk. I know that many other people do the same. And Jonas' time is worth money.

Five years ago last June Julius Jonas was led into the office of the New York life Insurance Company, on Forty-second street, New York. He was about fifty years old, sightless, and broke. He succeeded in convincing the manager of the office that he could sell life insurance, although he had never done that kind of work.

As he passed out of the office, Jonas heard a young man remark, "I certainly feel sorry for that poor blind guy, if he's going to try this game. It's hard enough to sell life insurance when you can see."

In November of that same year, Jonas was making an income of $150 a week. For the last three years he has sold more than $200,000 worth of insurance each year, and thus gained membership in the company's most exclusive organization of salesmen. Among the ten thousand salespeople employed by his company, Jones, "that poor blind guy," ranks with the first twenty.

Needless to say, Jonas enjoys a personal income from his work which puts him quite out of the way of worry about the necessaries of life.

Three months out of every year Julius Jonas devotes wholly to the work of helping other sightless persons to see how they can help themselves. Largely through his influence and inspiration, his company has taken on fifty other sightless salesmen, almost all of whom are making fine records. Their sales average higher than those of salesmen who have their sight unimpaired.

Jonas has prepared text books and rate tables for the use of prospective and active insurance salesmen who have not the use of their eyes. He answers thousands of letters from sightless persons every year.

"No, I am not conscious of any handicap," Jonas told me, the other day. "I have lost my sight, but I have gained many things. My memory is better than ever and the pleasure that I get from helping other sightless persons to help themselves is one of the greatest rewards I have known in life. I wouldn't have had that pleasure if I had retained my sight."

Julius Jonas was making $30,000 a year when an accident destroyed his sight so completely that he does not see a ray of light. He lost his savings in a business venture, and when he arrived in New York to look for work he had just $500 and a wife to support. An association offered to teach him to make brooms.

"No, thank youu," he said. "I think I shall life insurance."

As I may have remarked in this column heretofore, the human body is subject to many infirmities, but the human spirit is invincible.

Survey Shows 47 Deaths In Plane Mishaps During First Six Months Of Year

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Forty-seven deaths resulted from the operation of commercial aircraft in United States the first half of 1927, it was announced today following a general aeronautical survey by the commerce department.

Most of the accidents occurred in taxi and pleasure rides, test flights and instruction, this class of aerial operations having cost the lives of 15 pilots and 28 passengers.

The survey disclosed that practically all of the miscellaneous air accidents occurred with unlicensed pilots and unlicensed planes. The federal air law requires licensing of pilots and aircraft only in interstate flying.

One post office mail pilot and two contract mail pilots met death, while one passenger died in a contract mail plane crash. These accidents were due to weather conditions and classed as unavoidable. In other scheduled operations of aircraft there were no fatalities during the six months.

Overseas and other long-distance stunt flights were not included as they are marked by special hazards not found in ordinary commercial flying.

A marked decrease in accidents is anticipated after January 1. Major E. L. Jones of the aeronautics branch of the commerce department, said that following that date no surplus war plane would be licensed for passenger transport and that all new craft must be of approved type, to insure the safety of aerial passengers.

"With federal inspection of planes and examination of pilots, and with all the old war planes out of the aeronautical picture commercial flying will be vastly safer next year," Jones said.

"Our survey shows already that conditions are improving steadily and soon passengers may feel as safe in aircraft as in automobiles or railroad trains.

Casualties in scheduled airways flying are comparatively rare. In 1926 government operated mail lines suffered but one fatality. While three pilots and one passenger were killed on contract routes.

Thirty-two pilots and nine passengers on post office mail planes have met death since 1917 in aerial accidents, while deaths on the contract service which began in January 1926, numbered five pilots and two passengers.

The first half of the year 395,646 passengers were carried a total of 12,377,933 miles. Regularly scheduled airways planes carried 1,891 passengers, 2,642,364 miles without serious accident, according to the department.

A very pretty wedding was that of Miss Florence Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Kennedy, and Lewis N. Sankey, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Sankey of North Liberty, Pa. The wedding was solemnized at the Kennedy home Thursday, the ring ceremony being used with little Dorothy Mae Lawrence of Pittsburgh as ring bearer. The bride stood before an embankment of flowers and ferns. Rev. Ira Scott of Slippery Rock officiated. The house was very artistically arranged with the season's choicest flowers and bride carried a shower bouquet of brides roses, her gown being of blue taffeta.

A wedding dinner was served with places for 30 following the ceremony. The color scheme for the table was pink and white. A large wedding cake formed the centerpiece for the table.

Mr. and Mrs. Sankey left on a motor trip to Cleveland, Niagara Falls, Buffalo and Canada and will be at home in North Liberty, Pa., after November 1. Mrs. Sankey is well known and has many friends in and around the village who wish her much happiness and success. Before her marriage she had taught in the local schools and is a graduate of the Wampum high school. Mr. Sankey is a graduate of Slippery Rock State Normal and is at present in the mercantile business in North Liberty.

Woman Sent To Jail Until Her Taxes Are Paid

(International News Service)

LEWISTOWN, Pa., Oct. 22.—Mrs. Lillian Reed, of Milroy, near here, must go to jail to remain until she pays her 1926 school tax assessment, President Judge Thomas Dailey of Mifflin county court ruled here today. Tax and costs amount to less than $10.

Mrs. Reed has refused to pay the tax, and was twice lodged in jail, being released once on a technicality, and once pending the ruling handed down today.

She has refused to pay her tax for several years, holding that to force her to pay school tax in addition to taxing her husband similarly is in effect taxing her husband twice.

Sheriff William H. Flint was ordered to arrest her and lodge her in jail until she pays her taxes.

VISION AND SERVICE
Brass Tacks On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL.

The phrase "many men of many minds" is one that expresses the wide differences in the personalities of the Old Testament prophets and yet there is a unity and harmony in their several messages which show in all of them one dominating mind, and that the mind of God who inspired them to speak his word for him to their generation.

The Hebrew prophets did more than predict coming events. A comparatively small part of their ministry was foretelling the greater part was forth-telling thit is "speaking forth from God as they were moved by the Holy Spirit.'

Our lesson reveals how differently God calls different men. Elisha was called from his work at the plow to speak for God to his own people; Amos was, as he says, "neither a prophet, nor the son of ap rophet," but a herdman and dresser of fruit trees, a plain layman of the southern kingdom of Judah, drafted by God to go and preach the unwelcome message of judgment to the northern kingdom of Israel; Isaiah was a statesman of noble birth whom God called as he worshipped in the temple. So today "there are diversities of operation, but the same Spirit worketh all in all." No vocation is so commonplace that it can insulate us from the call and communion of God's Spirit.

Elisha in his gentleness is very different from Elijah in his severity and yet at God's direction the prophet of fire casts his mantle of prophetic succession upon the prophet of grace. Thus God has a place for every type and temperament and talent if only there be consecration of the same to his service.

Jesus the most wonderful of all prophets himself "testified that a prophet hath no honor in his own country." The people of Israel told Amos very plainly to go back home and mind is own business and leave them to their sinful ways. In the same generation Isaiah poured out from a broken heart the lament of all the prophets "Who hath believed our report?"

What was it that impelled these prophets to persue so unwelcome a ministry for God? It was a vision of God which begot within them a burning conviction that God had called them. Isaiah, the great patriotic statesman, was lamenting the death of his earthly king when God gave him a vision of the true throne in the heavens still occupied by Jehovah of hosts. The six winged heavnly beings covering their faces taught him reverence, covering their feet taught him humility and using their remaining wings for flight symbolized service. And as they cried "Holy, holy, holy, Isaiah's soul responded in revence, humility and service. This vision of divine holiness made Isaiah conscious of his own sin as he cried "Woe is me! because I am a man of unclean lips and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips." This confession brought cleansing as the seraph touched his lips with the coal from the altar. Then came the call "Whom shall I sent and who will go for us?' Then in consecration, Isaiah answered "Here am I; send me." Thus Isaiah is commissioned a prophet of God.

This is the unchanging order for us in this day, for let it be remembered that God calls to his service today as truly as he called the prophets of old. The order for us is still Confession, Cleansing, Call, Consecration and Commission.

(The International Uniform Lesson for October 23 is 1 Kings 19:19, 20 Amos 7:10-15; Isaiah 6:1-8, the subject being "The Call of the Prophet," and the Golden text, Isaiah 6:8 "I heard the voice of the Lord saying Whom shall I send and who will go for us? Then said I, Here am I; send me.")

Game Protector Is Skeptical Of Fever

BUTLER, Pa., Oct. 22.—"If there is any fever it's the hunters and not the rabbits that have it," said Game Protector Joseph Curts this morning when queried relative to "rabbit fever. "I have never run across any of it" said Mr. Curts, "and I believe that it is a mere invention to keep hunters out of the woods. I never heard of such a disease among rabbits."

Hunters of Butler county are skeptical of the disease much of which has been heard recently. Rabbits in many cases have a disease which is caused by bites of a fly parasite and is a common thing and has been noted in the rabbits of the state for years.

PETER'S ADVENTURES in ANIMAL LAND

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

BY THE LIGHT OF THEIR EYES

Mother Possum held up one paw and shook her head at her quarrelsome kiddies.

"Stop it! Stop it! I say! You are making too much noise, children, and you are old enough now to know that disturbing the peace is the most foolish thing in the world for wood dwellers to do. There is no telling what trouble it may bring upon us. How would you like to see old Woof-Woof poking his long nose around that trunk over yonder? All of you but the baby are out of my pocket, and before I could tuck you in and take to a tree, Woof-Woof's long legs would bring him to us."

"Ooh!" shivered the little Possums. "Wouldn't that be terrible!"

"It certainly would," cried Mother. "Yet, if your squealing and squeaking have already reached Woof-Woof's ears—"

Mother Possum stopped and all the little Possums drew long breaths and nestled closer to her side.

"What will happen?" asked the small, scared creatures, in awestruck voices.

"Woof-Woof will bark to his master that the Possums are fighting among themselves and 'tis a splendid time to steal a march on them. Two-Legs will take his dog's bark for it, for he knows that Woof-Woof's nose and ears and eyes tell him the truth about most things, and through the dim woods they will come seeking us—Woof-Woof and his master. If we have not time enough to run far, far away they will spy us hiding in a tree—"

"How will they spy us, mother?" asked the small Possums, fearfully.

"By the light of our eyes shining in the darkness," whispered Mother Possum. "Then up will go his bang stick to Two-Leg's shoulder. There will be louder noise than you ever heard before, and one of us will go crashing to the ground, to be picked up by Mr. Hunter and carried off to be roasted for his breakfast."

"Ooh!" whispered the frightened little Possums. "Don't tell us any more. We will not make a speck of noise, but will be as good as we can be—just as quiet as mice! Oh, mother, mother, dear, take us deeper into the dark woods, where Woof-Woof cannot find us!"

Next—"At the Crack of a Twig."

Roses Are Used To Pay Church Rent

The congregation of the Trinity Reformed church at Tulpehocken, Pa., pays an annual rent of one red rose to the owners of the land on which the church is built. Over 182 years ago Caspjar Wistar gave the land to the church, but in the deed he stipulated that the annual rental be one red rose. His heirs received the rent this year in an auditorium decorated with roses. Payment of one white rose was also made for other concessions from the Wistar family in recent years. All charitable work of the family serves to perpetuate the odd custom originated by Casper Wistar.

Ohio Girl Hurt In Auto Accident

SHARON, Pa., Oct. 22.—Miss Leona Hanger, aged 22 years, proprietor of a beauty shop at West Farmington, O., was injured yesterday near Meadville, when the machine which she was driving left the road and turned over twice. Miss Hanger was thrown 20 feet but escaped with but a few bruises. The machine, a roadster, belonged to Thomas Wilson of Warren, O., and was badly damaged.

Post Office Already Preparing For Large Christmas Business

Although it is over two months until Christmas time the postoffice department is already making preparations for taking care of the enormous mails that they must handle at Christmas time.

The chief feature that will be different this year is that deliveries will be made on Monday, December 26, which in general will be observed as a holiday, Christmas day coming on Sunday this year.

The department is quite anxious that their employes have a holiday but they fear that the offices cannot handle the accumulation of 48 hours of mail at the holiday time. Thus the regular employes of the offices will work until noon on Monday December 26 and deliveries will be made in the city and on the rural routes in the forenoon. Those on the rural routes especially will be permitted to leave early in the morning in order to complete their work before noon if possible.

The local postoffice officials say that last Christmas was one of the smoothest in the history of the office because the patrons all cooperated in the work as they were asked. It is hoped that this year the mail may be handled with even greater dispatch and efficiency and the public are asked to co-operate in every way possible especially by mailing early. More definite information will be made known later it is said.

Identifies Three Robbers In Recent Watchman Slaying

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—Ignoring underworld death threats, a garbage collector identified three members of the bandit gang which killed Thomas Kennedy, a bank guard, and wounded two others during the attempted $13,000 hold-up of the Belmont Trust Company's armored pay truck here recently, police said today.

Police refused to reveal his identity. A guard has been placed at his home to balk possible attempts to harm him.

The three arrested gave their names as Robert Mais, 22, and Louis "Fats" Barrish, 27, and George "Skinny" Barrett, 27, all of West Philadelphia. They are charged with murder and highway robbery, and probably will be arraigned today before Magistrate Holland.

ANTI-RICE DRIVE IN JAPAN

The movement in Japan to find new fields for rice cultivation in the Usuri river region of Siberia is meeting with opposition from a group who point out that rice is really a luxury food and urge the Japanese to eat more wheat. While there is no arguing about questions of taste the rice lovers pay dearly for their preference. Rice costs them two and a half times as much as the American's staff of life. It is contended, moreover, that wheat is twice as rich as rice in protein.

GETTING WHAT THEY WANT

W. J. Bryan used to be fond of saying "the people can have what they want". He was talking about politics and democracy. The people get what they want in lines which have nothing to do with politics and democracy. They wnated more silk than there was silk to be had. Cotton wouldn't satisfy. And now the artificial silk industry uses 150,000 tons of wood pulp in one year. The people can have what they want because they can depend on the devotion to knowledge of a few.

RECREATION

The value of the motion picture lies in its power to carry us for an hour into an unreal world. For a time we participate in adventures that will never thrill us in reality. That is recreation. It is getting away from the worries and the perplexities of the day. Unfortunately some pictures put over a sadly mistaken idea of life. Such pictures are no good. They are misleading to youth, and disgusting to a generation that knows better. But clean, lively, humorous pictures furnish real recreation, for they furnish an easy and legitimate escape from some of the unpleasant realities of life.

UP AND ON

The year 1900 isn't so long ago. Stanley Homes, Jersey man, was then an apprentice in a shop. Today he is at the head of the second largest telephone shop in the world—the Western Electric plant at Kearney, N. J. Ultimately 20,000 men will work there. Stanley Homes had a chance. Today's office boy has a chance. You have a chance. We all have a chance. That's the big thing about this democracy of ours. We have a chance. What are we going to do with it?

JUST DIRT

More than $14,000,000 worth of dirt was sold last year. In other words, nearly 4,000,000 tons of clay were mined and sold by producers in this country. Harper Leech, in the Chicago Tribune, tells the story of clay—clay made into brick and tile and pottery.

It's all dirt—just dirt. Day by day we pass by scores of things that seem worthless. We brush by opportunities without a second look. Just dirt. We don't lack ability, when we once get our hands on something, but we lack imagination to see what a thing MIGHT BE.

There is a story in the common clay that is finally sold for fourteen millions.

PUZZLE

Puzzles are popular. There is something in man which delights in the intricate and the complex. That's why so few of us are as simple, straight-forward and honest as we ought to be. Where did we get this love for going the long way round? Perhaps from our early ancestors who had to be wary. They hadn't developed harmonious relations with other men and they had to be careful.

Paymaster Is Robbed Of $2,200

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—Waylaid by three bandits who shot him in the shoulder and then blackjacked him, William Ransom, 45, paymaster for the George Weiss Company, cabinet makers, today was robbed of $2,200. The robbers fled in a stolen car which they later abandoned after eluding scores of motorists and police Ransom is in a serious condition in St. Mary's hospital.

Earl Carroll Has Different Vision On Life And Work

Emerges From Prison Gates With Zest For Work And Cheerfulness

By TARLETON COLLIER
International News Service Special Correspondent.

EN ROUTE WITH EARL CARROLL, Baltimore, Md., Oct. 2.2—Earl Carroll, speeding toward Broadway and a "come back" from prison life, today displayed for the first time since he emerged from the prison gates Thursday night a zest for life and work and a cheerfulness that had been lacking in his grave, shy demeanor.

He awakened at dawn with the habit of prison routine still upon him. He greeted the day in a suit of flaming purple pajamas, quite a contrast to the blue denim he had worn in Atlanta as convict 24909. He talked in a strain that differed from his prison conversation, as if his philosophy is ripening with reflection.

"In prison," Carroll said, after a hearty breakfast, "there is work and companionship and men's interests. I found them all. But it strikes me that the true horror of prison life lies in the fact that there are no women in that world.

"I don't mean women from the viewpoint of sex but from the point of beauty and tenderness. I mean the color that women give to life and that is reflected in the stores and shops of our cities, gleaming with articles for women's joy and adornment."

Start Probe Of Damaging Fire Near Meadville

(International News Service)

MEADVILLE, Pa., Oct. 22.—County authorities here today started an investigation into a fire of unknown origin that destroyed the bank barn on the Mary Gaut farm, Hayfield township, Crawford county. Damage was estimated at $4,000.

Two horses, two cows, 25 tons of hay, grain, new farming equipment all were destroyed.

This was the second fire of unknown origin in the same section within the last week. Authorities suspect a firebug.

GARDNER

Honorable and Mrs. Chas. J. Shaffer of Ralphton, Somerset county were guests of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Smith of Gardner, during the S. S. convention. Another relative entertained at the Smith home was the wife of Pharmacist E. J. Cadman of Youngstown.

Miss Lois Myers, the delegate from the Gardner Sunday school gave the school a most excellent and enthusiastic report of the convention, last Sunday. Lois was present at almost every session and was perhaps the youngest delegate in the house, yet her notes were admirable.

Mr. Vogan, a Gospel worker from Ellwood City will make the address next Sunday at the county home.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Kerr of R. D. 7, and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Orr had a delightful automobile trip, going to Montreal, Ausable, Watkins Glen, Albany, Saranac Lake. A boat ride at the Thousand Islands, seeing many points of interest in New York City. The weather and roads were perfect, and the beautiful landscapes, and magnificent scenery, found in many places will not soon be forgotten.

Mrs. C. B. Anderson of Gardner is spending a week with her two sons in the Beaver Valley.

Mrs. T. W. Dickson of Gardner spent a day in Youngstown, and called on Mrs. Updegraph, formerly of Gardner.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Robb and children and Miss McCamey motored to Butler last Sunday to the home of Mr. Robb's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Robb.

Mrs. Laughrey and daughter Lucille of Sharon were calling on Mrs. E. O. Alexander at Gardner this week. They were delighted to see the flowers at the Dickson dahlia gardens.

Mr. and Mrs. John Clapper and daughter Savilla spent last Sunday afternoon with their relatives, the Grant Riden family at Zelienople.

Frank Reno who has been in the New Castle hospital for some time on account of a broken leg, was removed to his home on Friday and is recovering.

Mrs. Marie Williams of Youngstown was an enthusiastic caller at the Gardner flower gardens recently.

Mrs. E. O. Alexander and son Francis of Gardner spent a week with relatives at Albion, Pa.

The members of Savannah church held a pie social last night for the benefit of their ball team. The members of the C. C. class of the church are holding a Hallowe'en party tonight.

Mrs. James Comstock of Gardner gave her class of young girls from East New Castle Mission, a very pleasant party, last Wednesday night. Games and music were the pastimes until ten o'clock when the hostess served delicious refreshments. Those present were Margaret Lytle, Lois Fombelle, Lois Powell, Flora Mae Tindall, Anna Moser, Helen Hanna, and Lucille and Dorothy Hunter. Also Jack McCowan, Charles Truby, William Woods, Harold Hanna, Gerald Allen.

Mrs. Orsini of Gardner came home yesterday from the New Castle hospital with her twin sons, Philip and Andrew.

Miss Martha Grohs, a teacher at Neshannock Falls, was a guest during the week of Institute at the Benson home at Gardner, where Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gray, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Benson and daughter Edys Lou were also guests last Sunday.

Democratic Tax Program High

Democratic Program For Tax Reduction Will Exceed $400,000,000 Is Report

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22—The Democratic program for tax reduction will exceed $400,000,000, Rep Collier (D) of Mississippi, a member of the house ways and means committee which will initiate the tax revision bill, asserted here today.

"Every proposal made by a Republican leader thus far for tax reduction is less than the treasury can stand," said Collier. "The president has declared that a $350,000,000 tax cut is too much, but I believe that it should be not less than $400,000,000."

Reduction in corporation taxes and abolition of many "nuisance" taxes were predicted by Collier.

Although flood relief legislation must take precedence over everything else, the financing of this program will not halt tax reduction, he asserted.

Thirty Are Hurt In Train Crash At New York City

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Thirty persons were injured, six seriously, when a southbound ten-car express crashed into a standing train at the 207th street station of the Broadway-Seventh Avenue I. R. T subway during the early rush hour today.

The two rear cars of the standing train were telescoped. Most of the injured passengers were in these.

Both trains were fully loaded.

Plan To Abandon Rodgers Airport

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 22.—Possibility that Rogers Field, the city-county airport here, will be abandoned except for training purposes loomed today following an inspection by Major John McDonald of the third corps area headquarters, Baltimore.

Following his inspection Major McDonald stated the field is all right for reserve training purposes, but it is not suitable for heavy passenger or freight planes and unsatisfactory in size.

AUTO BANDITS SNATCH WALLET FROM WOMAN

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 22.—An automobile containing five men drew up alongside a curb where Elizabeth Cook, 22, was waiting for a car to take $543 to the bank for her employer today, and just as she was about to board the car the bandit snatched the wallet from her hand and escaped.

In the struggle for possession of the money the girl was thrown to the ground but she suffered only from shock. She was employed by the Stoecklein Bakery.

Asks Army Team Play On Coast In Post-Season Clash

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Senator Hiram Johnson (R) of California today telegraphed President Coolidge to use his influence to send the Army football team to the west coast in December to play Leland Stanford University.

The telegram was referred to the war department.

A precedent for the service teams going west was established last year when Army and Navy met in Chicago.

John A. Bruce Dies In California

Word has been received of the death of John A. Bruce, age 67, at his home in California on Friday morning, October 21.

Mr. Bruce was born in Scott township in 1860, the son of Hiram Bruce and Sara Donovon Bruce. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ellen Patterson Bruce and three daughters, Mrs. Zela Jobes, Mrs. Carl Miller and Mrs. Charles Neiman, all of California. Two brothers and three sisters, Joseph Bruce, Mrs. Edward Sperry and Mrs. G. R. Allen of Oregon, and James Bruce and Mrs. Fannie Richael of Scott township, also survive him.

Automobile Accident Case Is Now On Trial

The cases of Albert Swagger and Guy Burkholder against W. D. Kelty, in which they are claiming $100,225 damages as a result of injuries sustained in an automobile collision on Wilson avenue, Youngstown, is on trial before Judge Hildebrand in Lawrence county court. Kelty is a resident of this city, while the plaintiffs are both residents of Ohio, the former living at Canfield and the latter at Youngstown. A number of witnesses from Youngstown are present at the trial.

Large Crowd Goes To South Hi Game

Large delegations from New Castle —all wearing red and black ribbons, and all carrying banners: "Beat South"—left the city at noon today, bound for Youngstown, where the annual grid classic will be staged at 2:30 this afternoon.

It is a delegation in whose hearts hopes are high; for they believe in their team, and believe that the same boys that so far have been undefeated this season, will return to New Castle this evening with another scalp hanging to their belts, this time the scalp of a highly touted rival.

Early in the week, seats in the New Castle cheering section at the Youngstown stadium were sold out, and to the ones who were late in placing reservations, it will be a case of standing room only.

Aside from the large crowd that went to the game in autos, the P. and O. company's special cars were well filled, and indications point to the fact that there will be a record crowd present to greet the boys in red and black as they dart down the field under the opening kick off.

FLOOD DANGER AT PITTSBURGH PASSES

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 22.—The U. S. weather bureau announced today that all flood danger her has passed. The present river stage is 21 feet, four feet under flood level. High water brought thousands of dollars damage here earlier in the week.

Valuable Bonds In Leather Case Are Hurled Into Creek

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 22.—Piegon Creek, Washington county, became a mecca of gold seekers today following announcement here that $20,000 worth of bonds in a leather case had been cast into the stream.

The case was taken when an automobile owned by Jacob Newman, of New York, was stolen from a downtown garage, according to police reports.

The alleged auto thieves were apprehended at Fredericktown, and while being returned to this city, tossed the leather case into the creek.

Make Plans For First P. H. C. Party Of Fall Season

Will Be In Nature Of Hallowe'en Masquerade Event Next Thursday

Following the business session held by New Castle circle No. 5, P. H. C. on Thursday night. The Booster club held a meeting to complete arrangements for their first party to be held throughout the winter season.

The Hallowe'en masquerade to be the first of the series of dances under the auspices of the club promises to be an elaborate affair and preparations are in progress for perhaps a record breaking crowd. The winter social activities of the local circle need no introduction to the public and with their parties of the highest order are always largely attended by the members and friends of the circle.

The committee on arrangements for the Hallowe'en masquerade offer special prizes for the best character impersonation by lady or gentleman and there will also be junior prizes for the girls and boys.

At the party to be held in the Odd Fellows hall on North Mill street a local orchestra will tantalize the feet of the dancers from 8:30 to 11:30 o'clock and that is not all.

The committee has an added feature in the presence of Madam Celeste, a Russian princess in this country in disguise. The madam is said to be the only rival of the late Eva Fay and is but recently released from Ellis Island, New York. She is not a medium but can look into your past, present and future, reading your very thought from the crystal globe. The committee has been put to great expense in bringing this gifted princess to New Castle and and no one attending the party should fail to call upon the wonderful woman, now that's that.

LILLIE B. JONES,
Secretary.

Foster's Weather Prognostication

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—A storm wave of moderately severe intensity will be expected to cross continent during week centering on October 22, this storm period will be expected to be the most severe of the month, in North America and over the northern hemisphere, excepting period centering on 2; precipitation during storm period centering on 22 will be moderately heavy, averaging above normal for the continent; heaviest precipitation during this period will occur in western part of section 7, in all of sections 2 and 4 and in eastern parts of sections 1 and 3, in order as given; above normal precipitation will, however, be expected over practically the entire continent during this period. Average temperatures during last half of October are expected to trend generally downward; a severe cold wave to follow storm wave centering on 22 and to extend much farther south than is usual for this period of the year.

Period including October 20 and November 8 will be expected to average more severe than usual; during this period, weather extremes will average greater than usual and growing season will be brought to a close farther south than usual. General details of weather features expected during November will appear in next issue.

Twenty Years' Progress?

In 1906, Willis I. Moore, then chief of the U. S. weather bureau, assured the public that he would soon be able to issue long range weather forecasts; his hope was based upon Prof. Langley's theory of the effects of periodic variations of sun's heat. In 1907, Prof. Frank H. Bigelow, then professor of meteorology with a birth in the U. S. weather bureau, assured the public that he would soon be able to issue long range weather forecasts a year or more in advance; Bigelow also looked to the sun as the principal cause, but his theory included sun-spots, effects of sun's rotation on its axis and other planetary phenomena as direct causes. In 1907, Prof. Garriott of the U. S. weather bureau, assured the public that he would soon be able to issue weather forecasts a few days in advance based upon existing conditions as shown on a synoptic map of world conditions.

Why have these promises netted practically noting during the past twenty years? The government still confines its weather forecasts to the next thirty-six hours; Langley's theories have been improved by the research of Dr. Abbott, but Abbott has become so interested in highly technical problems of astronomy that it is doubtful he will be able to return to earth with his valuable theories; Bigelow found it essential to leave our government and take up his work and studies under the more liberal views of the Argentine republic. Had Bigelow been encouraged, which was probably impossible in a department of such varied theories and theorists at war with each other, it is very probable that he would before now have discovered at least the key to weather problems. In our government of free speech, free thought and independent action, it seems necessary that a scientist first sell his theories to his chief and then permit his theories to reach the public as eminations from the great brain of that official. World history has disclosed not one great scientist who would stoop so low and stay put.

Fifty-Two Suits For Insurance Filed By Butler Firm

BUTLER Pa., Oct. 22.—Fifty-two insurance companies are made defendants in suits filed today by the Butler Candy company to collect on policies issued to the later company on a building and its contents which were destroyed by fire the night of May 14, 1927. The suits are brought for the use of the Butler Savings and Trust company, trustee for the candy company.

The leading fire insurance companies of the United States are alleged to have assumed obligations in giving protection against fire to the extent of $129,500 on the building and contents. Attorneys for the candy company aver that the building and stock were valued at $127,424.13 and that property valued at only about $4,000 was salvaged from the fire.

As far as the court records show, these units involve the largest number of defendants ever cited in the Butler county court.

Probe Damaging Fire In Homes Of Ohio Miners

(International News Service)

STEUBENVILLE, O., Oct. 22. — Two investigators from the state fire marshall's office came here to probe a fire that destroyed a row of six miners houses belonging to the United States Coal Company at Bradley. Earlier in the week a dynamite blast wrecked the adjacent mine tipple.

The sheriff's office estimated the fire loss, which occurred during the night, at $50,000. The fire was described as incendiary.

Union miners on strike have been restrained from interfering with production at the mine through a federal injunction.

Philadelphia To Greet Lindbergh

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22. — Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will be accorded a tumultuous welcome when he arrives in Philadelphia this afternoon on the last hop of the 22,000-mile flight that carried him through every state. Lindbergh will fly his "Spirit of St. Louis" here from Wilmington.

Mercer Breeder Stands High In National Circles

McDowell Of Fredonia Wins Prizes At Columbus And Springfield

MERCER, Pa., Oct. 22.—On Sunnybrook Farm near Fredonia lives Fred McDowell, a life long resident of the county. It may be of interest to his many county friends to know that as a result of his wins at the state fairs of this and three falls previous that McDowell today is rated at the top among breeders of Hampshire sheep in the United States.

He reached this pinnacle of success by virtue of the fact that at the big sheep shows of Columbus, O., and Springfield, Massachusetts, of this fall he was the big money winner in his class. To the initiated, naming of these two shows means the last word in competition.

A pen of Shropshire lambs, owned by W. T. McCoy of the McCoy Farm here, president of the Mercer County Fair Association and a stockman of state-wide reputation, were also winners at these big events.

McDowell states this season is his best in four and he frankly admits that the first three were not money losers. He carried with him 15 head of sheep making what is known as a full show. Other state fairs at which these animals were winners are those of Trenton, New Jersey; Richmond, Virginia; Hagerstown, Maryland; Timonium, Maryland.

McDowell has one champion of all these events, a year old ewe.

There is no better animal of her breed in the country as a result of her championship wins at Columbus and Springfield state old stockmen.

The animal was reared and bred on the McDowell farm. McDowell is the son of Vinton McDowell, who for years was interested in this pursuit.

Officers Grill Sam Jaworski

Brother Of Paul Jaworski Subjected To Severe Grilling In Pittsburgh

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 22.—Locked behind closed doors, county detectives today grilled Sam Jaworski, accused of helping his brother Paul and John Vasbinder shoot their way out of the county jail here in one of the most spectacular deliveries on record.

Sam was brought back here last night from Detroit, where it was announced he had written a letter to a friend in Uruguay telling of the jail breaking plot.

A grand jury is expected to indict Jaworski in connection with the jail break on the strength of the letter intercepted by postal authorities and given to Detroit police. Efforts will be made to indict the pal, Jim Mesheck, in connection with one of the payroll robberies that made the Jaworski band notorious here.

Fish Hooks Cure For Pickpockets

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Oct. 22.—Tony Augustine of St. Joseph, is a boilermaker. He is prosperous enough to travel abroad but not so affluent but that he is careful of his money. Tony had his pockets picked while he was in Warsaw, Poland, recently and was greatly irked. So he went to a tailor and had him sew 60 fish hooks in the two pockets where he carried his money.

Leaving Warsaw for Bremen, Germany, two men jostled Augustine and slyly slipped their hands into his pockets. Loud yells gave evidence that the thief catchers were at work and the entire pockets had to be cut from his clothing before the two men could be released. Tony stayed two days to prosecute them and was given a reward of $500.

Scores of automobile accidents reported every week testify to the careless driver and also the jayhawking pedestrian. Sometimes it's one, sometimes it is the other, and occasionally both types that are involved.

It would appear that the automobile has been here long enough for all to understand its possibilities; also its limitations.

A little common sense and recognition of the rights of others would make the streets and roads safer for all.

Seven Ferry Boat Passengers Have Miraculous Escape

Terror-Stricken, Passengers Helpless As Ferry Boat Drifts With Flood

Boat Finally Landed On Island And Turbulent Waters Cheated Of Victims

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 22.—Terror stricken and helpless, seven persons aboard a flat boat were carried six miles down stream by the turbulent waters of the Susquehanna river in pitch darkness last night, while hundreds of persons lined the shore, unable to rescue them.

Today the seven, including three women, were none the worst for their experience, after being removed from Smith's Island, here, where they landed.

The flat boat, used as a ferry between Duncan's Island, Duncannon, and the west shore, was caught by the rushing tide of the flood waters, and carried downstream with its passengers. The Duncannon fire department was notified, and followed the boat downstream from the shore, its siren going full blast to warn residents to be on the alert for a possible rescue.

Radio station WMBS, Harrisburg, was notified, and spread the alarm. Soon hundreds of persons lined the shores and watched the bobbing lantern on the flat boat until the terror stricken passengers landed at Smith's Island after the six mile ride.

Those aboard the boat were Mr. and Mrs. E. Norman Baer, Harrisburg; Lucille and William Rodkey, sister and brother of Mrs. Baer; Matthew Witherow, Duncan's Island; Robert, his son, and Mary Carey, niece of Mrs. Baer.

Little Stories

Councilmen, Friday gave thought to the woes of the weary and men who have no employment; men who, by force of circumstances are compelled to travel from town to town until their quest of employment ends successfully. Councilmen favor a "bunk room" to provide shelter and warmth from the ravages of winter. During the meeting, Walter Johns, city engineer, Wilkes-Barre, present was asked to say a few words.

After telling the solons their transaction of councilman affairs was similar to that of the Wilkes-Barre council, he said, that "while sitting here I heard your discussion of the 'bunk-room' and might explain the system in vogue in Wilkes-Barre.

GIVEN LUNCH AND THEN HANDED SAW

We have a wood-pile and the man who obtains a night's lodging saws wood and the city sells the wood. We obtain railroad ties from various sources and unload them in the railroad yards beneath the South Street viaduct. There is a place arranged when men can work in safety.

"After the men have a night's lodging the prisoners are given a lunch, prepared by the police matron and they are taken to the wood-pile where they saw." According to Johns, the city officials have found this decreases the number of men who apply for lodging.

CLUBS PREPARING FOR KING WINTER

Various local clubs are preparing to meet King Winter and before the snow melts away in April there will have been many entertaining features arranged and completed by the organizations. Looking forward to pleasing their members the local lodge, number 69, Benevolent Protective Order of Elks is arranging various features for men members, their wives and children.

The Elks club, which occupies one of the most beautiful buildings in the city, is what can be called a quiet, comfortable clubhouse. There are billiard rooms, a good dining hall, reading room, ladies and gentleman's parlors. All kinds of magazines and newspapers provide reading matter and the radio turns out the latest pieces, vocal and instrumental for those who habit the music room.

DO NOT THROW AWAY AUTO TAGS

A man who received a tag for blockading an alley Friday took the pasteboard and threw it from his automobile. Within a few minutes he was in custody of Traffic Patrolman Nick Faella who gazed upon this procedure in such a manner that he promptly arrested the man.

He was taken to police headquarters where he was given a verbal lecture by Mayor William Dunlap. The chief executive was incensed, not particularly on account of the blockade but the disregard for the tag. "I'm going to fine you the regular price but the next time the fine will be $10," he remarked.

Allen Haid Has Leading Role In Quota Club Show

Well Known Clever Actor To Have Lead In "Punchinello"

Those who see the doll show in the Scottish Rite cathedral next Friday and Saturday will be agreeably surprised by the unusual talent displayed by our local high school students.

The leading role "Punchinello" (Punch for short), has been given to Allen Haid, who has become well known for his clever acting in the several high school productions under Miss Clara Hartsuff. Punch is a rag doll and king of doll land and is a part which requires good dancing as well as good acting. The committee has used good judgment in giving the part to Mr. Haid. The Fairy Queen is being played by Miss Dorothy Jean Wallace, an attractive young lady, who needs no introduction. Delphine, a Parision doll, is being played by a comparatively unknown local actress, Mary Emma Davis. Miss Davis possesses a lovely soprano voice and her singing and dancing in Punchinello will endear her to the audience.

Three Convicted Of Election Fraud To Ask For New Trials

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 22—It was considered likely today that the three election judges convicted of irregularities in the 1926 spring primary election would seek new trials.

Charles Golden, fire captain, and William Bolster were convicted of conspiracy and on two other counts, while the third judge, Mrs. Anna Conklin, was found guilty of making a false count. The jury recommended extreme mercy and it was expected that the woman might be paroled if a new trial is denied.

Andrew T. Park, assistant district attorney who prosecuted the cases, expressed satisfaction with the convictions and announced he would oppose the granting of new trials.

Injuries Fatal To Johnstown Man In Auto Crash

(International News Service)

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Oct. 22.—Edward H. Weigel, 53, president of the Weigel and Barber Printing Co., died in a hospital today of injuries he received yesterday when an automobile driven by Wilson Woy, of Johnstown, crashed into a telephone pole.

Mr. and Mrs. Woy, who suffered painful injuries in the crash were reported to be recovering at the hospital today.

The accident occurred near Bradford, Pa.

MINISTRY THEFTS MYSTIFY

Mysterious thefts which have been occuring for several years in the official residence of the finance minister at Nagatacho, Japan, have baffled the Japanese police. Despite the fact that the brick building is guarded by policemen day and night, the thefts happen frequently. Costly gifts, flower vases and even bottles of beer have been taken. One janitor, who was suspected, went insane and was forced to retire, but the pilfering continued.

Roaming Round With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

Bobby Burns never wrote "Breathes There A Man With Soul So Dead." Let this fact be established at the very outset of this paragraph. And the reporter who wrote the article knew that Sir Walter Scott wrote it. But sometimes even the best judgment of a reporter is swayed by some outsider who insists that he's right, and the reporter stands for all the grief after the error is in type.

In describing the presentation of the two plaques at the Scottish Rite Cathedral the article said that the verse on Benjamin Sterrett Agnew's plaque was by Sir Walter Scott. He knew differently but a bystander seemed to think it was Burns and the line was changed. Which accounts for the error.

Did some hurried roaming down to the Central Christian church last night where the baseball team was being honored with a banquet. It isn't any wonder the Central Christian church is a flourishing church, the way the ladies prepare food. They can do more tricks with a dinner than a magician and they never have any difficulty getting a crowd out. And how those baseball lads laid that grub away.

The Castleton will be all "busted out" with banquets for the next few days. The contractors put their feet under the table tonight, and on Monday night the workers cut loose with their feed. Then on Wednesday night the Formal Dinner takes place with dignity and eclat just cluttering up the place.

Who remembers the Dirty Dozen? Do you recall that organization of young men here years ago who banded together under that name? Just offhand you would think that it was an organization of hard boils which would be wrong for the Dirty Dozen was composed of some mighty clean young Americans. Jack Rowan who pitched for the Cincinnati Nationals was one of them, and Bob Thompson of the Carnegie Steel Company was another. Who remembers who else belonged to the Dirty Dozen?

Plenty of Ellwood City folks were over here Friday night for Senator David A. Reed's dinner in The Castleton. John Offutt, Connie Wardman, Carl Davidson, Milt Bickett, Dave Jones, Squire Hancher, Burt Bell and a number of others. It was nice of them to come over and the committee in charge of the dinner appreciated their interest.

The soapstone artists on the South Side are still demonstrating their skill on the windows of the merchants. As a result, a few of the men down there have taken steps to haul some of the lads in before Squire Cooper unless it stops immediately. Washing plate glass windows is one form of sport the merchants don't seem to be able to appreciate.

The world would be a lot brighter if we had more Lily B. Joneses. This estimable lady comes into the office occasionally and usually stops at this desk. And somehow, no matter whether the day is dark, the sun seems to shine out after she's gone, and a fellow feels like tackling all the work in the world.

Testing Brakes On Ellwood-New Castle Highway

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 22.—Friday afternoon Corporal Glasser of the State Patrol with headquarters at New Castle, and two assistants were testing brakes of the motorists coming down the mile hill.

They were stopped and ordered to test the brakes to see if they were of the right consistency of tightness. This is in accordance with the state law. In Canada the law compels the motorists in some provinces to place small sign on their rear fender stating "4 Wheel Brakes." There have been several accidents on the mile hill owing to defective brakes.

KNOX CHURCH HAS MONTHLY SOCIAL

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Oct. 22.—Twenty-five members of the Knox Plan church enjoyed a monthly social Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Emma Bonzo of Riverview. Games and contests formed the evening's diversion, and the house was cleverly decorated along Hallowe'en lines.

The evening's festivities closed with the serving of delicious refreshments.

UNDERGOES OPERATION

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 22.—Mrs. H. W. Smith of Second street successfully underwent an operation for Appendicitis Friday afternoon in the West Penn hospital at Pittsburgh. She is resting comfortably at present, and everything possible is being done to alleviate her condition. A wealth of sympathy goes to her from her host of friends here.

Veterans Auxiliary Enjoys Mask Party

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Oct. 22.—One hundred members of the Sons of Union Veterans enjoyed a masquerade party at the lodge rooms in the Luxenburg building last evening. Many and varied fantastic costumes brightened the hall, which was further decorated with Hallowe'en motifs.

Prizes were awarded for the best costumes, and the evening closed with appropriate refreshments. Mrs. Duncan headed the arrangements committee.

HAVE HALLOWE'EN PARTY

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 22.—The Golden Star Sunday school class of the Wurtemburg U. P. church was hostess to the members of the Live Wire class of the same church last evening.

The basement of the church was decorated in true Hallowe'en style and the guests on arrival were taken into the inferno and initiated in its mysteries. Many grotesque costumes were in evidence.

Refreshments incident to the season were served by the members of the class, assisted by the teacher, Miss Hanna White.

Verdict Rendered For Plaintiff

In the case before the Lawrence county court of Helen L. Moseley against Edie R. Miller of Bessemer for damages on account of injuries sustained in an automobile accident, the jury awarded a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $1,408. Miss Moseley was injured while riding as a guest of Miller, the accident occurring at Mt. Jackson when the car driven by Miller skidded into a telephone pole.

MANY ELLWOOD FOLKS PRESENT AT REED DINNER

Ellwood Delegation Was The Largest Present Outside City Of New Castle

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 22.—Ellwood City was well represented at the testimonial dinner given by the Lawrence County Republican committee in The Castleton at New Castle for the Senior United States Senator from Pennsylvania, the Hon. David A. Reed of Pittsburgh, on Friday evening, Senator Reed attended a luncheon at noon at the Shelby mill and addressed at that time the Friday conference of the mill superintendents nad foremen.

The banquet in the beautiful new hotel, The Castleton, was attended by the leading Republicans of the county, the Ellwood delegation being the largest from out of the city of New Castle. Headed by Representative Milton A. Bickett, the local group included C. C. Davidson, R. T. Brown, Burton J. Bell, M. A. Riley of the state fish commission, John Offutt, James Camp, Clyde B. Houk, H. Some Of Guests Who Will Attend Banquet Tonight

About 100 To Be Present At Opening Week Function The Castleton

It is with deep regret that the management of The Castleton learns that the invitation list for the contractors, sub-contractors and newspapermen's banquet, to be held this evening in the Crystal ballroom, did not include all those who were entitled to invitations.

John L. Slack, manager of The Castleton, wishes it to be made known that all the contractors, sub-contractors and newspapermen, along with hotel men, are cordially invited to attend the banquet.

Indications point to the fact that there will be well over 100 attend this affair.

The guest list has not yet been made up, but the following men have signified their intention of being at the first of the opening banquets: W. L. Aiken, Sharon News-Telegraph; A. D. Brandon, judge of morals court, Pittsburgh; E. L. Brundage, National Radiator Company, New Castle; George W. Conway, editor, New Castle News; John R. New Political Warfare Rumored Through Roumania

(International News Service)

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—New rumours of political difficulties in Roumania have reached here.

The latest report is that Queen Marie and Premier Bratianu are in open conflict. The gossip is that Queen Marie threatened that unless given a dominant place in the regency she would meet Prince Carol at the countryplace of her son-in-law, the king of Jugo-Slavia and effect a full reconciliation with Carol and aid him in an attempt to return to Roumania.

Premier Bratianu is said to have answered this threat with a counter-threat to wipe out the present Roumanian dynasty and establish a republic.

Large Attendance At Revival Services Of Nazarene Church

The meeting last night at the Church of the Nazarene where a series of revival services are being held was the best meeting so far both in the number in attendance and interest shown. The auditorium was quite filled before the opening of the service.

Rev. and Mrs. Redmo gave a very fine song service. The duet "In Sweet Bulah Land" was especially inspiring and beautiful. Rev. Redmon preached a powerful sermon on the subject, "The Fearful and Unbelieving Shut Out From Heaven."

Rev. Redmon will preach Sunday morning at 10:45 and the Rev. Mrs. Redmon will preach at the night service at 7:30. The morning theme will be, "Receiving the Holy Ghost." Mr. and Mrs. Redmon will sing special numbers at both services.

The GAY RETREAT

You Can See "Queen High" At A Popular Price

Eddie Garvie, Noted Comedian and Girls in "Queen High"

Something extensive, musical and generally phenomenal, comes to the Scottish Rite Auditorium, Tuesday, Oct. 25, under the name of "Queen High". The piece has had remarkable triumph in all the larger cities of the United States, including New York, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia, where it created a veritable furore, in addition to which it has broken every known record for receipts everywhere it has played.

Brimming over with clean natural comedy situations, fairly scintillating with toe tickling tunes and with fast dancing of the eye pleasing type all delivered with a band of clever players and as charming a chorus as ever graced a stage, it is quite natural that "Queen High" has endeared itself to theatregoers, who like the best that musical comedy has to offer.

Admission: 75c, $1.00, $1.50, $2.00, plus tax.

POLICE ON TRAIL OF PEEPING TOM

Receive Reports That South Side Women Are Being Accosted

Once more the police were kept busy last night following the trail of the young man who has been annoying and threatening women and who is probably the "peeping" Tom" that has been terrorizing the South Side district of the city in recent weeks.

Apparently this man, who seems to have an obsession for bothering women is getting bolder, for the reports made to the police are that now, instead of merely stopping and insulting or annoying women and girls, he is beginning to grab them.

Last night the call came from Mrs. J. F. Johnson of 1017 Clearview avenue who informed the police that her daughter had been grabbed by a young man wearing a red sweater and who was tall and slender. This was the fourth time according to Mrs. Johnson that a woman or girl had ben accosted in this manner in that district.

Officers Dukes and Samuels answered the call and scoured the district and did pick up a suspect who was able to furnish an alibi and was released. He answered the general description given.

When on this case the officers learned of a similar case that had occurred a few days previous but had not been reported to the police. In this instance a young man wearing a red sweater and light colored trousers stopped two girls on South Jefferson street near Long avenue and is said to have struck and knocked down one of the girls.

The police are redoubling their efforts to get this man whom it is feared may become still more bold and do greater harm than has already been done.

Hell is advertised every day. Heaven gets most of its publicity on Sunday.

Rushing Season Comes To Close At Westminster

One Fraternity Hauls Pledges Through Town On Meat Truck

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 22.—Yesterday marked the close of one of the wildest fraternity rushing seasons ever seen in the history of the college here when 100 of the freshmen were literally torn away from their studies and activities to listen to the tale of the modern fraternity. Today the pledging puts the final touches to the, in some instances, sordid affair.

Many and varied were the methods used to beguile the freshman into shaking hands that he would join this or that fraternity and so often were the methods questionable that often some of the freshmen spent the afternoon in shaking hands with different fraternity men. One of the wildest of rushing freshmen was that used by the fraternity that hauled their prospective pledges around in a meat truck.

The reason given for the surprisingly great amount of activity in this year's rushing is that it is expected that next year there will be no rushing of freshmen. Consequently, in installing rushing season in the sophomore year of the rushees, next year will be an empty one for the fraternities.

Millionaire Puts Son On Probation In Will

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—The will of Frank Deming Stout, one of Chicago's wealthiest men, provides that his son, who is chief heir, must show improvement in prudence and ability if he is to take possession of the estate. Mr. Stout, who was a railway and lumber magnate, was estimated to have a fortune of over $10,000,000. Of his son, Allison B. Stout of Philadelphia, he wrote:

"I regret to say that I have not, at present, sufficient confidence in the prudence and ability of my son to manage, conserve and take care of the property. It is my earnest hope that he shall speedily prove himself worthy of confidence."

When the son is thirty-five—he is now twenty-six—he will receive the principal and accumulated earnings of the trust fund established by his father's will provided he proves to the satisfaction of his mother and whoever is president of the Illinois Merchants Trust Company that he is capable of managing the estate. Otherwise, the trustees will act for another ten years, at the end of which time they will decide again whether the son will receive the principal or whether they will continue to act until his death.

The Castleton Result Of Effort Of New Castle Citizens

Public Campaign Brought Funds To Erect Hotel

Hotel Built As Result Of Survey Showing Big Need In City

OVER HALF MILLION RAISED IN WEEK

More Than 800 Citizens Aided In Providing Fund For Project

Things do not happen of themselves. For every effect there must be a cause and The Castleton, New Castle's splendid new hotel which will be opened formally during the coming week will not just "happen".

GEORGE T. WEINGARTNER, President.

It is not the result of some sudden idea of a building contractor or a stock promoter, or a mere expression of civic enterprise.

Instead it is the result first of a need, then of careful study and investigation and finally concerted action, efficiently planned and skilfully sold. "The Castleton" is what it is because of the energies, enthusiasm and money of New Castle men and women, and when it is formally opened next week it will be an example of what can be done when all minds are centered upon a single end.

Several Attempts.

The need for a metropolitan hotel in New Castle has been an obvious one for a number of years. Every year saw the need more glaring and prior to 1925 several attempts were made by individuals to promote such a project.

Perhaps the men back of the earlier attempts were not the proper ones, perhaps the time was not right. Whatever the cause none of them got any farther than a few speeches and ensuing resolutions by various organizations and there the matter rested.

Early in 1925 the idea of a new hotel for New Castle was again revived. A locally controlled and managed hotel was thought to be not quite the thing and finally after scanning various proposals, the New Castle Chamber of Commerce opened negotiations with the American Hotels company. This company replied that before any work was done on the actual start of a hotel campaign, that a survey of the situation should be made and the Hockenberry System of Harrisburg was employed to make such a survey.

Report Favorable.

After an exhaustive survey the Hockenberry System reported that New Castle was ripe for a new hotel, and following this report the Chamber of Commerce set the wheels in motion for a campaign that would raise $500,000 for a new hotel, with the idea that an additional $250,000 would be secured through a first mortgage after the building was up.

An executive committee was formed with State Senator George T. Weingartner as the chairman, with James K. Love as associate chairman. Howard B. Richards was named treasurer and C. H. Hunt, who at that time was secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, was named secretary. The executive committee consisted of 78 outstanding men of the community and following the naming of the executive committee a sales organization was formed with O. P. Brown as general sales manager. Under him were four divisions, A, B, C and D. E. A. Fenton was named manager of division A, with J. B. Foster, Jess H. Gibson, H. L. Gordon, Thomas Munroe and A. T. Venditto as team captains.

Division B was headed by Howard B. Richards with Paul Butz, Jonn E. Elliott, James Mayberry, J. Lee McFate and William Nunn as team captains.

Division C was headed by Louis B. Round with E. L. Brundage, James Evans, H. L. Marvin, A. C. McCoy and Carl E. Paisley as team captains.

Division D was headed by M. D. Wells with Robert L. Meermans, C. A. Patterson, Ira M. Ramsey, A. W. Tindall and Fred C. Wolford as team captains. Divided among these 28 teams were 186 men who were convinced that a new hotel was possible and were willing to devote their time to soliciting stock subscriptions to it. In all, counting executive committee, the various team captains and workers, there were 282 men in the work.

The Campaign Starts.

The Hockenberry System was retained to handle the drive, and F. E. Mayer and G. C. Wynn represented the company. On Wednesday evening, February 3, 1926, the drive formally opened with the opening banquet being held in the ball room of the Masonic temple on North Mercer street.

Determined to get the campaign off to a flying start, the workers had subscriptions to report that night and reported a total of $53,600, which together with the executive committee totaled $237,800, more than half the total of $500,000 asked for. At that first report meeting division A, headed by H. B. Richards, took the silk flag for divisional honors with a total of $17,400, and H. L. Marvin's team honors with a total of $7,700.

At noon of Thursday, February 4, the total stock sale was $310,200 and on Friday at noon the total was boosted to $342,800. By this time the rivalry among the various divisions was intense and each day at noon saw scenes of hilarity. E. A. Fenton was continually embroiled in a friendly argument with some other division leader and the famous argument between him and Louis B. Round was one of the high spots of the campaign.

Going Up.

Saturday the total reported was $331,400, and on Monday it leaped to $423,800. That evening the Masonic temple, where the meetings were being held, burned, and the teams were forced to seek another meeting place. The meeting of Tuesday, February 9 was held in the First M. E. church and the total reported was $471,300.

Wednesday, February 10, the success of the drive seemed humanly certain when the total reported was $503,100 with the final meeting scheduled for that night.

That was some meeting, that last one. All afternoon the workers combed the city for stock subscriptions and at 6 o'clock when they met in the First M. E. church there was an air of suppressed excitement. Some of the team captains were accused of "holding out" to make a grand slam at the final and "wise cracks" were plenty.

Following the serving of the dinner the roports were made and the grand total was $541,000, far above the mark of half a million originally set and once again the city had a demonstration of what could be done by organized effort.

This, briefly, is the history of the campaign for "The Castleton". It is a history of earnest endeavor, plus boundless enthusiasm, plus efficient leadership. The hotel was needed ergo, the men of New Castle provided the means whereby the hotel could be built. It was built, it is ready for dedication and next week that dedication will take place.

The next Legion meeting will be in Texas, where the guests and not the hosts will do the frisking.

Mercer Bridges To Open November 1st

MERCER, Pa., Oct. 22.—The county bridges now being completed are all ready but the seasoning of the concrete before they are put in use which will occur the last of November says County Engineer F. P. Graham of Grove City today.

This includes the two Garrett bridges on the Mercer-New Wilmington road; bridge on North Otter St. here and the bridge at Kennard.

The concreté all poured and nothing to do but minor work says Graham.

The Castleton Is Already Advertised Far And Wide In America And Europe

That the contract between the Community Hotel company, headed by George T. Weingartner and the American Hotels Corporation, which will operate The Castleton, automatically started a barrage of publicity throughout the country, was made public today in a statement from General J. Leslie Kincaid, president of the American chain.

General Kincaid believes in losing no time when it comes to the question of pushing a good thing along. As a military man, he has learned that victories are often won, not on the firing line, but in general headquarters.

"Of course, in the last analysis, the man who goes 'over the top' and carries out orders is the deciding factor in any battle," said the general, in his New York office, "but back of the man there must be a plan, and back of the plan must be men who will put the plan through.

"It is the same way with hotel operation, or with any business, I believe. The opening of the hotel doors for public patronage may be likened to the 'zero hour' in the trenches. When it comes to that point, the local manager and the community which supports him, are the all-important factors, but in our scheme of hotel operation, a vast amount of work must be done in advance."

General Kincaid then explained some of the methods used by the company in introducing its hotels to the public. "As soon as a contract is signed, a suitable announcement is prepared at national headquarters and sent to all the managers of the hotels in the United and American chain. The United Hotels company now operates more than 23 first class hotels in the cities of this country and Canada, while the American company operates 30 hotels throughout the country, with ten more under construction, and many projected.

"The local managers of all these hotels co-operate by having the announcement published in the local papers and by carrying the announcement on the back of all menu cards and other printed forms used in the hotels. What this means in cumulative advertising will be appreciated when we consider the great business done in the restaurants of such important hotels as the Roosevelt in New York City with its 1,100 rooms, the Benjamin Franklin in Philadelphia, with its 1,200 rooms, the Mount Royal in Montreal, Canada, with its 1,050 rooms and the Olympic in Seattle with its 600 rooms.

"At the same time a notice of the signing of the contract is sent to all trade papers in the hotel field, numbering seventy-five and covering the entire country. The announcement is also sent to U. N. I. T. I., the European hotel organization which is affiliated with the United and American companies. This European organization (Unione Nazionale Industrie Turistiche Italiane) operates sixty famous Old World hotels, in all parts of Europe, England, Egypt, South America and elsewhere. Notice of the connection is carried on the menu cards of these foreign hotels also.

"Another form of invaluable publicity is through the regular advertising program of the United and American companies. This advertising carries the names of all hotels, including those under construction and projected.

"The advertisements are published regularly in all the great national magazines in the country. Many hundred thousand dollars are expended annually in this way.

Many Mediums Used.

"Still another medium for advertising, which is at once made available to the local enterprise is the house organ called 'Unity,' which is published by the company and distributed through all its hotels. In this house organ the local directors are introduced to the other directors in both companies, now numbering approximately 400 in the United company and 300 in the American company. Photographs and sketches of their business careers are used.

"Those are a few of the ways in which we are able to help through coordinated effort, in advertising a new hotel proposition," said General Kincaid. "We realize that it is the sustained campaign that counts, and this campaign cannot start too soon. In return we rely upon the business men of the community to do their share in boosting the new hotel proposition. If we all work together, success is a matter of course."

Among the other publicity activities of the Americans Hotels Corporation are the following:

Carrying a list of American hotels on 5,000,000 book match covers.

Carrying a list of hotels on 300,000 calendar cards of convenient pocket size. These are popular, especially with traveling salesmen.

Carrying a list of hotels on back of preferential cards issued by the United and American companies.

Local Directors Of The Castleton

George T. Weingartner Is President And H. B. Richards Treasurer

Out of the hundreds of citizens of New Castle who took stock in The Castleton, it was necessary to select ten, who with two named by the American Hotels Company would serve as directors in this new community hotel project.

The question was not whether ten men were available, it was who the ten would be, for among the stockholders are listed men and women who have made a success of their own businesses, who have keen business instinct and who would be a credit to any directorate.

Only Ten to Pick.

A meeting of the stockholders was called and after careful deliberation ten New Castle men were selected and the citizens of this city can be proud of the selection. Not one man on the board but who has been successful in his own line of endeavor and not one of them but has given freely of his time and talents towards bringing The Castleton to its completion.

The officers and directors of the board follow: President, George T. Weingartner. Mr. Weingartner is the president of the Weingartner Realty Company and in his years of realty development has hundreds of houses to his credit. That portion of the East Side of New Castle lying between Almira avenue and Rose avenue is what it is today largely because of his business acumen. The Ben Franklin Junior High School section is the latest development of his company. He is an attorney-at-law, the present State Senator from this district, served a previous term in the State Senate, and two terms in the House of Representatives, was elected a county commissioner twice, and is a past president of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce.

The vice president is O. P. Brown, head of the former Brown and Hamilton Company department store, a director in the Lawrence Savings and Trust Company and a business man of many years standing.

The secretary of the board is P. J. Flaherty, the president of the Johnston Bronze Company and the man who developed that company from a small manufacturing company into its present flourishing condition as a nationally known manufacturer of bronze bushings.

The treasurer of the board is Howard B. Richards, superintendent of the New Castle Water Company and a civic worker here for many years. He has been a moving figure in the work of the Rotary Club, Community Chest work, and a dozen and one other civic enterprises.

The directors are:

A. C. Hoyt, who as president of the National Bank of Lawrence County before its consolidation with the First National Bank, and at present a vice president of the consolidated institution.

P. L. Craig, president of the Freedom Oil Company, vice president of the Lawrence Savings and Trust Company, president of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association and a man of extensive business interests.

Fred L. Rentz, president of The New Castle News. Twice president of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce, a former mayor of the City of New Castle, former president of Rotary, and a factor in civic work here for the past twenty years.

Robert C. Love. One of the younger business men of the city. A vice president of the First National Bank of Lawrence County, and who until several years ago was the head of the National City Bank of New York's interests in the Argentine with headquarter's in Buenos Aires.

James K. Love. Advertising manager of the Shenango Pottery, present president of the New Castle School Board, past president of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce, New Castle Kiwanis Club, Community Chest, and a tireless civic worker.

T. F. Morehead, a man of widely varied business interests. The ramifications of his business interests include the insurance business, cement manufacturing, radiator manufacturing and many others. He was largely responsible for the construction of the golf course of the New Castle Field Club.

These are the ten New Castle men on the board of directors, of The Castleton. Capable, efficient and trustworthy, the citizens of this city can feel that while they are the head of the new hotel, the best business methods will be followed.

The remaining two directors are Captain S. N. Bobo of the American Hotels Company and General J. Leslie Kincaid of the United and the American Hotels Company.

Congratulations Sent To Head Of New Hotel From Notable Personages

Eyes of the entire hotel fraternity are focusing on New Castle and on The Castleton as the grand opening date of the new hotel arrives.

Thousands of letters have come into the office of John L. Slack, manager of the house, all expressing sincerest good wishes for the coming season.

Among hotel men who have extended greetings to Mr. Slack in his new house, and every good wish for the coming season are: Henry W. Leeds of the Chalfonte-Haddon hotel at Atlantic City, who is also the vice president of the American Hotels association; Earl L. Thornton of the Hotel LaSalle, Chicago; L. D. Moulton of the Prince George, New York; Frank S. Hight, manager of the New Willard at Washington, D. C.; Roy Carruthers of the Detroit Book-Cadillac; A. M. Thorman of the Philadelphia and the New York Ritz Carlton; W. M. Dewey of Edgewater Beach hotel, Chicago; H. S. Martin of the Ambassador, New York.

The entire staff of the Penn-Beaver hotel at Beaver sent in their heartiest good wishes and stated that they would attend the opening banquet en masse.

Other prominent personages who have congratulted Mr. Slack are: Senator W. Lick of the Canadian senate; Gifford Pinchot, former governor of Pennsylvania; Brigadier General J. E. Fecht of the Air Corps; Admiral Eberle of the United States Navy; Bishop Stires of the diocese of Long Island; Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War; Merle Thorpe, editor of Nation's Business; William F. Kendrick, mayor of Philadelphia; M. M. McLean, mayor of Paterson, N. J.; Harley Fisk, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company; George Wharton Pepper, of the United States Senate; David H. Morris, president of the American Automobile Association; Major General Preston Brown, of Boston; Archie Seixas, manager of the New York Herald Tribune; J. J. Byrne, president of the borough of Brooklyn; Major L. G. Adams, of the Department of State Police, Harrisburg; Cyrus W. Curtis of the Philadelphia Public Ledger; W. L. McMorris, president of the Seaboard Air Line, and Philip A. Andrews, Rear Admiral, United States Navy.

Letters from the different personages who congratulated Mr. Slack will be on display at the formal opening banquet

Able Staff Is Named To Manage Affairs Of The Castleton By Operating Company

As "The Castleton" opens today, at the head of each department in the house are men and women who have had the best of experience in their particular lines, and men and women that the American Hotels corporation thinks are best fitted to serve in one of the finest hotels in the chain.

A manager who has received his education at the school of hotel management at Cornell university, a clerk who has had long experience at the best resorts in Florida, a headwaiter who has served dukes, princes and kings, a chef who has spent four years with the Borden family in New York; all are prepared to greet the guests at the hostelry and offer them the best that can be given.

Heading the staff at The Castleton is John L. Slack, the manager of the house He comes to The Castleton from the Hotel Phillips at Phillipsburg, Pa., where he was manager.

It was at Williams college that Mr. Slack began his education. From Williams he transferred to Lafayette college, where he was graduated with an A. B. degree. After that, he entered the stewards department at the Detroit-Statler, but finding that his education was not yet complete, he spent three months in Europe studying European hotel methods. When he returned to America he entered the college of hotel management at Cornell university, where he was graduated with a B. S. This course is installed and supported by the American Hotels association and Mr. Slack was one of the first to graduate from this course.

After graduation, Mr. Slack went to the New Morton at Grand Rapids, Mich., where he received his front office experience. From there he was transferred to the Hotel Phillips at Philipsburg as manager, whence he comes to The Castleton.

William H. Huskamp.

William H. Huskamp, chief clerk at The Castleton, comes directly to New Castle from the Half Moon at Coney Island. Before he worked at the Half Moon, he was employed as chief room clerk at the Royal Poinciana at Palm Beach. He has also been employed at the Everglades club and the Alba, all of Palm Beach. During the war, Mr. Huskamp served with the aviation section of the United States navy.

Stewart B. Howson.

As chief steward, Stewart B. Howson came to The Castleton from the Savoy hotel at Detroit, Mich., where he was chief room clerk. Before he was at the Savoy, Mr. Howson was assistant steward at the Book Cadillac and Webster Hall, both of Detroit. He also served at the Detroit-Statler, and during the war he served with the aviation unit of the U. S. Marine corps.

John M. Sides.

pressure and high pressure boilers, John M. Sides comes to The Castleton from the Yorktown at York, Pa., where he was chief engineer. At The Castleton he will fill a similar position.

J. C. Brooks.

J. C. Brooks, the generial headwaiter, who will greet all guests of The Castleton when they enter the dining room, comes to New Castle from the Century Roof at Baltimore. As his assistant he will have Theodore Johnson, who has been with Mr. Brooks in this capacity for more than nine years.

Mr. Brooks expresses delight at the arrangements in the dining room which he will preside over, and states that, in the whole American chain, he likes The Castleton dining room much better than any, even those of the larger houses.

On his staff he will have 18 waiters and four buss boys besides his cashier, Miss Dorothy Lewis.

"Yes," he states, "The Castleton is the only dining room in the whole chain that I am in love with, and I am sure that it is a pleasure for me to be here."

room which is to be used also for the ball room. Leading off from both of them is the kitchen which is stocked with implements that would delight the heart of any housewife. Automatic potato parers, roll steamers, automatic egg boilers, bread cutters, dish washers, serving tables, refrigeration boxes and everything located with an eye to efficiency.

Pretty Dining Room.

The main dining room is situated at the east end of the building and is large enough to accommodate 200 diners if necessary. The appointments here are simple also, but withal good looking. Before reaching the dining room one finds the lounge room filled with comfortable looking chairs and divans and writing desks for those who wish to write letters.

The kitchen and auxiliary dining room are lighted by a skylight in the room and are ventilated by galvanized ducts connected to a fan on the roof. The air is changed several times per hour in this manner. The coffee shop in the southeast corner of the building is arranged for counter and table service and has an entrance from Mercer street.

Around the side of the building are seven shops which are being filled by merchants and will probably all be taken by the end of the month.

Two stairways lead to the second floor, one for a service stairway and one for guests. The guest stairway is also in the nature of a fire escape as it is enclosed in 8-inch tile and has steel fire doors at each floor. The building throughout is as fireproof as human ingenuity can make it and the fire exit stairway is merely another precaution against danger.

32 Rooms on Each Floor.

Like the other floors, the second floor has 32 bedrooms, each finished in American walnut with a dull varnish finish. The floors are of concrete with heavy rugs over them and the doors are double ones, to insure quiet in the room. One side is wood, the other steel, and should a fire break out in one room it could hardly spread to the others.

In all there 160 rooms in the building, of which but 20 have no bath. Some rooms are so arranged that they can be thrown into two, three, four or five-room suites, with separate entrances to each. Four storage closets are on each floor with two linen closets and chutes run to the basement to carry down the soiled linen. Six rooms on each floor have shower baths, the others tub baths.

The plumbing on each floor is enclosed in shafts with metal catch basins under to trap any leak that might develop. Should a leak develop it would simply run into the trough, and thence down a pipe to the basement instead of soaking through to the floor below. The radiators, which are Nationals, are hung instead of rested on the floor. This saves carpet wear.

Pent Houses on Roof.

Pent houses on the roof provide ventilation and withdrawal of the vitiated air from the floors below. The roof itself is a Johns Manville roof of composition and paper and mopped in hot asphalt. At the sides the roofing is flashed to the wall by copper flashing.

The elevators running from the basement to the roof are of the latest Otis design, safety elevators, and a double compartment in the elevator house on the top of the roof insures that no noise of the machinery will penetrate to the sleeping quarters.

The basement is in an interesting place. Here is where the machinery of the hotel is housed, and quite a lot of it there is. The heating plant is composed of two low pressure and one high pressure boilers, a vacuum steam system providing the heat.

The basement is really a concrete shell, so built that surface water cannot get in. The concrete had a waterproofing mixture put into it when it was poured, and was painted with another waterproofing mixture after it had set. The floor level is below the river level, thus insuring safety from possible floods.

Refrigeration Machine.

In one corner of the basement is the refrigeration machine which provides ice for the hotel. It is a huge affair and is kept working 24 hours a day. The kitchen storage room is in the basement and here are kept all the supplies used by the kitchen force. A special trunk elevator shaft runs from the sidewalk of the street to the basement and trunks can be dropped through this to the basement level and sent up to the rooms by the service elevator, thus keeping them out of the lobby of the hotel altogether. An incinerator is found in the basement which consumes all garbage from the kitchen and dining rooms. The laundry is also on this floor, locker rooms for the help and a dining room for them.

It is a splendid hotel, one that should receive the personal inspection of every citizen interested. The building is constructed of concrete and steel, with a facing of Castle Tex brick, a beautiful brick which was designed by the New Castle Mining & Clay Products company for The Castleton. The facing of the first floor is of Indiana limestone.

In cost the hotel represents about $675,000. The general contract went to the H. J. Conrath company of Erie, Pa., while the plans were drawn by Architects W. G. Eckles and A. L. Thayer with Thomas, Martin & Kirkpatrick of Philadelphia as consulting architects. The plumbing and heating was done by R. T. Withers Sons of New Castle, the electric wiring by H. L. Marvin company of New Castle and the Bartley Electric company had the fixtures. The W. G. Chew company furnished the building, the New Castle Mining & Clay Products company furnished the brick and the Otis Elevator company the elevators.

Learns English Last Of Eight Languages

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 22.—Miss Sarah Gordon, now of Kansas City, formerly of Grodno, Poland, could go to virtually any part of the world and soon would be able to carry on conversation with the natives. For Miss Gordon, 25, can speak fluently eight languages and can translate 26 others.

When she came to Kansas City five years ago she could speak seven languages, but not a word of English. She had graduated from a high school in Poland, and in three years here went through ward school, high school, junior college and had finished a course in a business college. She then got a job with a retail company here where a part of her work was to handle the foreign correspondence.

High Officials To Make Visit

Gen. Kincaid And Col. Olmstead To Attend Opening

WILL REPRESENT BIG CORPORATION

COL. EDWARD OLMSTEAD, Executive Director American Hotels Corporation.

Heading the list of celebration banquets which will mark the opening week at The Castleton will be the Contractors and Hotelmens Celebration Banquet Saturday evening at seven o'clock. This is usually a stag affair, and aside from the contractors and hotelmen, many newspapermen will attend.

As the first affair on the opening program Manager John L. Slack wishes to state that it will be one of the best, and all efforts are being made at the hotel so that it will be a success.

Sunday will be observed as a day of rest at The Castleton, and nothing will take place outside of the usual hotel routine.

Monday evening will be marked by the Victory Dinner, which is given to the campaign workers for The Castleton, as was promised when the drive started two years ago. Howard B. Richards will be master of ceremonies at this event.

Tuesday from four o'clock in the afternoon to 10 that evening there will be the stockholders' inspection of the building. A special route, which will be marked, with arrows, will be followed, taking the guests last of all to the dining room, where a buffet lunch will be served.

The grand formal opening banquet will take place Wednesday evening at seven o'clock following a reception at 6:30. This is the crowning event of the opening week and will be attended by General Leslie Kincaid and Col. Olmstead, both high officials in the American Hotels Corporation.

Many Phones In New Hotel Will Give Real Service

Nearly 200 Telephones Are Installed In "The Castleton" —Latest Devices

Thirteen calls can be handled simultaneously over the switchboard at The Castleton, and arrangements have been made so if the need arises, seven more can be added, making a total of 20 calls, stated Jack Dunfee, city manager of the Bell Telephone company in an interview today.

Connecting the hotel with the central office of the telephone company there will be four trunk lines. In the whole house, 174 phones have been placed, all connecting with the front office switchboard. In addition to these there are three private lines, one to the manager's office, one to the steward's office and one to the auditor's office.

Mounted on the switchboard there is one of the latest type of room directories, in the form of a vertical revolving file. Telephone directories for all of the larger cities in this section of the country are also at hand, so that they can be reached instantly by the operator in charge.

All the telephones in the lobby are of the Continental or French type hand phones.

"The American Hotels Corporation, in conjunction with the New Castle Hotels company and the Bell Telephone company were able to see the telephonic needs of such a hostelry," stated Mr. Dunfee. "I think that The Castleton will be one of the most up-to-date equipped hotels in regards to phones, as any other house in this section of the United States.

The American Hotels Corporation and the New Castle Hotel company are to be complimented on their foresight in equipping their house with the most modern telephone instruments. Everything has been arranged for the convenience of the guests.

New Hotel To Fill Big Need

Lack Of Adequate Hotel Facilities Is Now Overcome

"THE CASTLETON" STANDS WITH BEST

For many years traveling men and tourists through the City of New Castle have complained that the one lack of the city was that of adequate hotel space. They liked the city, liked the people but couldn't sleep on the street and the hotels were usually full.

That condition is no more and the answer is—The Castleton.

After years of talk and vaporous schemes for getting a hotel of metropolitan appearance and service the people of New Castle finally got together and in a short time had the money for the new hotel, and the hopes of years are now materialized in a hotel that needs no apology.

Not that the other hotels did not provide service equal to their limited facilities. They did and do, but could not handle any more than a full house.

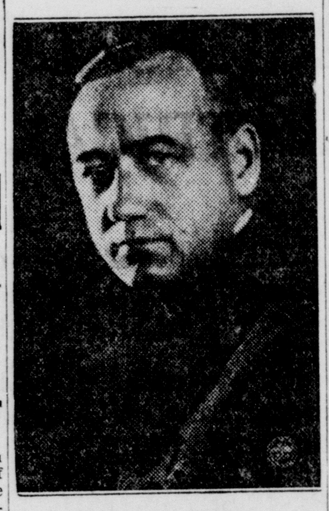

New Castle has needed such a hotel as The Castleton for a long time. Needed it for various reasons, but most of all to accommodate people who had to stay in the city over night.

With the opening of the hotel which will be formally done on Wednesday evening, October 26, New Castle citizens can now point to a hotel unexcelled for service in this part of the country. It is a splendid addition to the city, fills a long felt want and will be a means of advertising New Castle favorably, over the entire country.

Construction Foreman Tells Of Progress Made In Building Of Hotel

By JIMMY McCLOSKEY.
Supt. Of Construction The Castleton.

Construction work on The Castleton started last fall and because of the late start, much of the concrete structure, such as the foundation walls, the concrete framework, and rough floor slabs, had to be done during the cold weather of the winter months.

This was made possible by the contractor installing a steam heating plant,consisting of boilers, steam heating coils, on which the concrete materials were placed, and piping that each day was extended to the location of the work.

The newly poured concrete was covered with heavy canvass tarpaulins, thus aiding in keeping it warm until it was thoroughly set and past danger of freezing. Underneath the concrete slabs just poured, salamanders burning coke also aided in keeping the concrete warm.

Laboratory tests of each section of concrete poured in The Castleton show that the strength proved to be well over that which was calculated. Much of the concrete tested 4200 pounds to the square inch. Concrete of this character and mixture generally tests to 1800 or 2000 pounds to the square inch, all of which goes to show the high quality of the materials used.

Early in the spring the brick walls were started. This work was carried on without interruption due to the scaffolding, which was of a type that could be covered over with canvass, thus shielding the workers from rain and cold.

The exterior walls, up to the second floor, are of varigated Indiana limestone, while the balance of the walls are of a tapestry brick manufactured in New Castle. Interior walls are of a fireproof tile also manufactured in New Castle.

With the concrete construction, the brick and stone exterior, the clay tile interior and the steel door frames. The Castleton is as near fire proof as a building of its kind can be made.

On the main floor, the woodwork is of black American walnut, while on the guest floors, the woodwork is of a special hard wood.

Among the many features of The Castleton are the refrigerating plant, the garbage and rubbish incinerator, a central vacuum plant, which is connected to all parts of the building, a dirty linen chute and a rubbish chute with openings at each of the floors. There are also two freight elevators.

Many compliments have been extended for the high class work that has been done on The Castleton, and especially on the craftsmanship that is shown on the interior woodwork. Much of this credit is due to the fine type of craftsmen available in New Castle. Nearly all of the men employed in the construction work of The Castleton were citizens of New Castle.

Approximately 5300 barrels of Portland Cement and 4200 tons of sand and gravel were used in the concrete construction and cement work. One-third of a million bricks, and 160,000 clay tiles, 150,000 board feet of rough lumber, five carloads of interior woodwork were used in the building. Two hundred and twenty-five tons of reinforcing steel for concrete reinforcing and fifty tons of structural steel were also used.

Four hundred and fifty tons of sand, and three carloads of metal lath were used in the plastering.

Cost Of Hotel About $750,000

Report Of Expenditures In Connection With Erection Is Given

"The Castleton" is a community hotel. As such it was made possible by and through the co-operation of the citizens of New Castle and its stock is held by hundreds of men and women of New Castle.

Not only the stockholders but the citizens of the city of New Castle have a right to know how the money has been spent thus far, and for what items the money went.

The recapitulation of the total cost to August 27, as furnished by Howard B. Richards, treasurer of the board of directors for "The Castleton" shows that when every bill is paid, the total will be $732,732.61. When the splendid hotel is examined, the kind of construction investigated and the beauty and quality of the appointments considered, the total cost is far under what hotels of similar size in other communities cost.

Of the $732,732.61 to be expended, stock sale receipts on August 27th amounted to $450,000.00, with $50,000 due and considered absolutely good. The balance of the money will be secured by a mortgage which was authorized by the stockholders.

The recapitulation of the expenditures follows:—

Unique Plant Brought To News

Taking them all in all, rutabagas are queer things, but perhaps the queerest of these was brought in to the office of the NEWS yesterday afternoon by Sam Frishcorn of 512 Cascade street.

This was not an ordinary rutabaga; far from it. In fact, it can only be described as elephantine, for shaped like an elephant it was. Ears, eyes, legs, trunk, and tail—it had every earmark of an elephant. Even the wrinkles in the skin, which one always associates with the big, lumbering beasts were there.

And the top, or rather the place from which the stem had been cut, was a perfect reproduction of a Maharajah's seat, making the illusion only more complete. In fact, it was the queerest rutabagas that any member of the NEWS staff had ever seen, and they believe that it is by far the most unique one grown in the county.

Ball Cast Up By Sea Causes Speculation

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Oct. 22.—Something unusual in the way of flotsam came ashore today at Burgeo, on the southwest coast of Newfoundland, when a rubber ball two feet in diameter was picked up. It was enclosed in a canvas bag.

The telegraph operator at Burgeo, to whose office the object was taken, sent word here that the figures "226" and $17 RF" appeared on a rubber tube attached to the ball and the figures "218" on the outside casing. Writing on the outside casing, barely decipherable, looked like "London".

The reformer should be patient with us. After all, the world's wickedness keeps him in a job.—The Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch.

Many Features For Comfort Of Guests Installed At Hotel

Many features for the convenience and comfort of the traveling public stand out prominently when one inspects The Castleton. The architectural beauty of the building itself, the convenient plan of each floor, the handsome appointments of each apartment and the facilities everywhere for the prompt and pleasing service to patrons all come in for enthusiastic comment.

More or less in the background, but playing an important part in making all these factors real in their performance of the service of a truly modern hotel, is one absolute essential—electric service. Electrically, The Castleton is complete. In scores of ways the purposes of this magnificent new institution of New Castle in providing the best and most modern of hotel accommodations are made possible by electric service, from the unseen and highly practical uses of electric energy in the basement engine room to the well planned lighting of the lobby, lounge and other public apartments that gives full force to the decorations that adorn them.

In every step of the electrical equipment of the new hotel the builders have had the hearty cooperation and assistance of Louis B. Round, district manager of the Pennsylvania Power company, and the illuminating and power engineers of the Penn-Ohio system. The result is that the multitude of applications of electric service are found here at their best.

The lighting equipment throughout The Castleton is characterized by beauty and illuminating efficiency. The units were selected with great care to add to the decoration of the apartments for which they were chosen as well as to spread the soft illumination of just the right intensity for the purpose to be served, carrying out the essential principle of illumination of providing ample well diffused light without glare or gloom.

The bedroom units are of totally enclosing glass of decorative style equipped with 150-watt and 100-watt lamps, according to the size of the apartment. Each bedroom also is equipped with two duplex convenience outlets to permit the flexible use of floor, stand and bedside lamps as well as the electrical toilet appliances of guests. The illumination generally is that which is "kind to the eyes" and restful to the occupants of the rooms though they are hardly conscious of the source from which it comes.

The public dining room is lighted by magnificent chandeliers of Georgian period design. The ornate fixtures of the lobby and lounge are similar in artistic design and harmonize perfectly with the architectural details.

A striking feature of the private dining room is that lights of high intensity above the skylight make it possible to reproduce daylight illumination at night.

Three electric elevators, two passenger and one service, provide abundant facilities for transportation from floor to floor. An electric trunk hoist in the basement automatically carries baggage to any floor desired by the mere puush of a button.

But it is in ways that do not come directly under the observation of the guests that electric energy performs some of its most important services for them. The basement is fully equipped with electrical aids for the engineer. An electric blower supplies air under pressure to the furnaces. Ashes are carried by the electric ash hoist to the sidewalk level. Electric vacuum pumps insure the proper circulation of steam heat to all apartments through the radiator system.

Ventilation throughout the hotel is insured by the liberal use of electrically driven fans. The private dining room is ventilated by two electric exhaust fans above the skylight. Another large fan removes the impure air from the lobby. Exhaust fans in the vent stacks on the roof provide ventilation for all parts of the building. The kitchen vent stack is equipped with an exhaust fan which removes all fumes and cooking odors.

In many ways the kitchens of the hotel would be an electrical delight for the modern housewife. Here she will find an electric potato peeler preparing vast quantities of potatoes on short notice and an electric mixer kneading the dough for bread or rolls and pastries of all kinds. Used dishes are washed and dried automatically in an electric dishwasher while the refrigerators, ice-making machine and ice cream cabinets, of course, are electrical.

The service wires from the lines of the Pennsylvania Power company enter the hotel underground in a vault at the northeast corner of the building. In this vault are located the transformers, disconnect switches and oil switches for the entire building. One 75 kva. transformer supplies the current for the lighting circuits while three 25 kva. transformers take care of the power requirements, making the total connected power capacity approximately 200 horsepower.

Three Hospitals May Be Combined

BEAVER FALLS, Oct. 22.—At a meeting of the trustees of Rochester, Beaver Valley and Providence hospitals held here under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, to consider hospital needs in the valley, a survey was ordered which will have for its purpose the consolidation of the three hospitals and the erection of a hospital with a capacity of 500 rooms.

Henry C. Wright, New York, will make the survey. All three hospitals, it was brought out, are heavily in debt and lack facilities for taking care of sick, injured and charity patients within the county.

AUTOISTS INJURED

NEW BRIGHTON, Oct. 22.—Mitchell Conner, New Brighton, and Donald Casper, Freedom, were injured when their machines crashed headon, along the Rochester-New Brighton road. Casper was hurled through the windshield.

Enjoy Class Party At Senior High

Miss Virginia Reeher General Chairman Of Committee In Charge

About 100 members of the Senior A and Senior B classes at the senior high school gathered in the halls of that institution on Friday evening for their class party.

The halls were decorated with Hallowe'en colors, corn stalks and other autumn decorations.

Dancing was in vogue throughout the evening. Music for this was furnished by the senior class orchestra. Fortune telling and various games also provided enjoyment for those who were present.

The committees under the direction of Virginia Reeher, general chairman, which were responsible for the success of the affair, are as follows:

Financial committee—James Campbell, chairman; Ruth Stanley, Muriel Williams, Albert Pitzer, Thomas Uber, Frank Richards, Clara Alice Mitchell and Raymond Toler.

Entertainment committee—James Staats, chairman; Dorothy Jean Wallace, Mary Shannon, Jack Lampe, Raymond Toler, Clara Alice Mitchell.

Refreshment committee—Paul Hite, chairman; Mariana Davies, Mary Miller and Roy Frampton.

Decoration committee — Virginia Reeher, chairman; Frank Byers, Harold Sankey, Louise Davies, Betty Conners, Gunnar Swanson, Clarence Bratschie, Harold Burton, Don Switzer, Elmer Williams, Sam McGoun and Bruce Ewing.

The American Hotels Creed

(Written Especially by Dr. Frank Crane for the American and United Hotels)

To serve—zealously, efficiently, joyfully. Everything else, profits included, is incidental. Without profits there can be no service, but the service is not for the sake of profits, the profits are to make possible the continuation and development of the service.

To express abiding faith in human nature by assuming that every man guest is a gentleman and every woman a lady.

To get the utmost profit from mistakes. It makes no difference who has made the mistake, the correction of it is the most instructive exercise anyone can accomplish.

To expand the business and add to the chain as speedily as may be, but never to open a hotel which is not fireproof.

To make the appointments of each hotel as luxurious as possible, and thereby to assist in democratizing the good things of life.

To maintain, unseen, unsuspected even, a perfection of order and discipline. A hotel, like a ship, cannot be run by parliamentary methods. A "Parliament" is a "Talking place." Hotelkeepers, like ship's officers, must be men of action, not men of the glib tongue.

To ask from time to time "How would I like to be treated if I were stopping here." Byt this means to inspire guests to ask themselves, when they are tempted to find fault, "what would I do if I were running this hotel?"

To remember that chain is not stronger than its weakest link, every hotel in the chain and every employe in each "link" are united in a joint endeavor, one for all, and all for the public.

To realize that a guest is also a human being. He is away from home, but he years to be made to feel at home.

To maintain a homelike atmosphere. This means being neither too cordial nor too cold, neither experts at enthusiastic gladhandling, nor icicles from Alaska.

It means keeping everybody happy by just the right degree of warmth. Too much heat is oppressive and too little is freezing. A sixty-eight degree demeanor may be hard to sustain at all times, but a constant effort should be made to approximate it.

To have the same good manners for everybody, while continuing to distinguish between a dear, grayhaired grandmother, and a pink-cheeked child of five between a jovial commercial traveler and a distinguished foreigner; between a college boy and a political conventioner, and while expressing toward each just the amount of cordiality he prefers. The "Golden Rule" for hotelkeepers and hotel employes must ever be the familiar variant of the Biblical rule:

Do unto others as they would you should do unto them.

To respect the privacy of guests. To afflict them with no unwanted assistance.

To permit them to make undisturbed use of the home they have hired, and not to intrude. One of the great joys of being in a hotel is to be alone, and to be left alone.

To be courteous, but never to be obsequious. A servile attitude implies that the guest enjoys servility and is an insult to the common humanity of the man who serves and the man who is served.

To enjoy being hospitable—and to find happiness in supplying food and drink and shelter and entertainment.

To keep poised at all times—secure in the knowledge that nothing is more natural, more dignified, nor more praiseworthy than the sincere desire to serve one's fellow creatures.

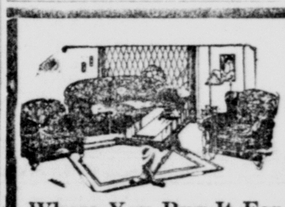

Finally, to be so convinced of the honor and worth of the art of hospitality, now and forever, in this world and the next, that heaven would not be heaven without a wayside inn to be conducted not on the American or European plan, but on the Celestial plan for the refreshment of pilgrims headed toward their eternal abiding place.

Panthers Play Carnegie Tech

Pitt Panthers, Undefeated, Are Favorites To Topple City Rivals

PENN-CHICAGO MEET TODAY

By REGIS CURRAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 22.—Pennsylvania and her colleges today attracted more interested glances from the eyes of the football nation than any other section of the land.

The reason is that the college football teams of the Keystone state are engaging in a dazzling day of gridiron attractions which can, and probably will, vitally affect the selection of a champion of the football east.

Of the undefeated football teams of the country to date, four of them hail from this state. They are Pitt, Wash-Jeff, Lafayette and Geneva. Pitt and W. and J. have perfect records, while Lafayette and Geneva have tied to mar their records.

Of the undefeated quartet, Pitt, Wash-Jeff and Lafayette each face an ordeal, for Pitt meets Carnegie Tech and Lafayette and the Presidents will attempt to do away with one another. Only Geneva, facing Waynesburg, has an easy day if comparative records are indicative.

Penn-Chicago Clash

The most important intersectional battle of the day finds this Senate-investigated state embroiled with Penn of Philadelphia grappling with the University of Chicago at Chicago.

Syracuse, an undefeated team, finds itself opposed by Penn State College, which threatens to duplicate its feat of a week ago, when it performed the surprise upset of the day by defeating Penn.

As to importance, the Lafayette-Washington Jefferson tangle loomed in the front rank of the entire East.

Lafayette still has in its mouth the bad taste of a 7-7 tie with West Virginia to goad it into a fighting mood. The Presidents will be urged on by the sleek seductiveness of Lady Eastern Champion.

As to color, tradition and bitter rivalry, the Pitt-Tech fuss ranks with any match today.

It presents two institutions neighbors, in the same city, and the college football championship of that city at stake. Pitt was by far the favorite, but Tech was counting on the traditional Tartan spirit, fight and trickiness of Coaches Steffen and Waddell that has tamed so many favored Panthers in the past.

Grovers Favored

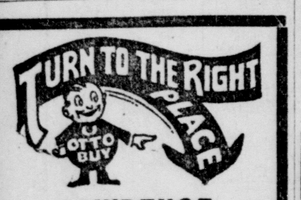

It was Penn's duty to uphold the football laurels of the East as against the Middle West, represented by Chicago. A Pennsylvania team, Pitt, upheld the East last Saturday by spanking Drake, 32-0.

Getting down strictly to western Pennsylvania colleges, today's program also presents Grove City at Allegheny, with Grove City likely to win. Allegheny has demonstrated a lack of punch this season.

Duquesne and Thiel played yesterday. Westminster has an open date.

Homes are still useful, however, to people who don't like to quarrel in public. The Montana Record-Herald.

Students Prepare For Today's Game

"Pep" Meeting Is Held In High School Auditorium On Friday

An assembly of the students of the Senior High school who are making the trip to Youngstown this afternoon to witness the New Castle-South High pigskin fray, which started at the South High stadium at 2:30 p. m., was held in the auditorium of the school Friday. The school cheerleaders, Frank Sandifer, Sherwood Johns and Jack Llewellyn were in charge.

The leaders led the students in the cheers which will be given at the game this afternoon.

Speeches were also included in the program. Robert Weingartner, president of the Student Council, made a fine talk on "Spoortsmanship." Ralph Gardner, faculty manager of the football team made a brief address, stressing the value of good sportmanship. He stated that the result of today's game would mean little a few weeks from now but that the thing that would live on is how the game was played and the attitude of the students from New Castle toward it. "In case of defeat," he said, "be good losers."

The gathering was dismissed after the students sang the school song.

Expect 80,000 To Attend Yale-Army Grid Game Today

By MALCOLM ROY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 22.—Like a conquering army pouring in upon a beleaguered town, a host of upwards of 80,000 football enthusiasts is marching into this historic city of elms today for the Army-Yale gridiron clash in the bowl this afternoon in the first of the season's really great football spectacles.

From all quarters of the compass the crowd is coming and by every means of conveyance—airplane, boat, motor and train. So vast is the stream of automobiles wending its way into the city by every avenue and street, lane and by-path that the city officials have almost given up in despair the task of finding parking space for them all. More than 25,000 motors of all sorts and descriptions are helping to bring the invading army here and there is parking space in and around the bowl for not more than 5,000.

Pitt Panther To Play Tech Today

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 22.—The collegiate football championship of Pittsburgh will be at stake when Pitt meets Carnegie Tech here this afternoon. The former, unscored on thus far this season, was a big favorite. Tech won the city championship last year and later defeated Notre Dame, but most of its 1926 stars were lost through graduation, while Pitt has many veterans to rely upon.

Castletons Win Football Game

The Castleton football team defeated the Square Eleven 12 to 0, in a grid contest played at the Sampson street field.

Burns and Bodendorfer were the big stars for the winners, scoring the touchdowns. Burns featured with runs of 20 and 30 yards.

FOOTBALL'S BEST ALL-TIME PLAYER — BY FEG MURRAY

That there never has been a better all-around football player than Jim Thorpe seems to be the consensus among the football coaches, old time stars and writers who have covered the game from the days of the flying wedge down to the present time. They claim that "Big Jim" was superior to Coy, Mahan, Eckersall, Heston and Grange because he could do everything on the gridiron well, which includes carrying the ball through the line, around the ends, in a broken field, interfering, punting, place-kicking, drop-kicking, passing and receiving passes, tackling, backing up the line, diagnosing opposing plays, and exercising brilliant judgment in the way of generalship on both attack and defense.

Many a would-be tackler from Harvard, Penn, Army or some other eastern university who found himself groveling in the dirt after being evaded by or trampled on by the speedy Carlisle halfback, did not realize the background behind Thorpe's powerful physique, quick brain and daring aggressive tactics. James Francis Thorpe was born in Oklahoma on May 28, 1886, and was a direct descendant of Black Hawk, that famous Sac and Fox chief whose deeds of valor form such an interesting chapter in American history.

Naturally a life on the prairies of Oklahoma developed young Thorpe into a fine specimen of manhood. Jim was just a natural born athlete, good at any sport almost the first time he tried it, and it is no wonder that he became a star, when he went to the Carlisle Indian school, in football, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, track and basketball.

Under Pop Warner's able tutelage he developed into the greatest football player of all time, and his success in track was just as pronounced. After winning the Decathlon and Pentathlon at the 1912 Olympic games in Stockholm, he calmly informed an emissary of the king of Sweden, who had come to his tent to get him, that he was too busy playing cards just then to go to see His Majesty, but that he might on the morrow, if he felt like it!

Thorpe's declaration in 1913 that he had played semi-pro baseball in the summers of 1909 and 1910, not knowing that it was wrong, exploded a bomb-shell in the ranks of amateur athletics. His Olympic prizes were returned, and he rejected numerous vaudeville offers to begin a long and successful career as a professional athlete.

Baptists Enjoy Annual Banquet

Baptist Baseball Team Holds Annual Banquet On Friday Night

GEORGE FOX IS PRINCIPAL SPEAKER

Twenty-five persons, members of the First Baptist baseball team and several invited guests, gathered in the First Baptist church basement on Friday night and enjoyed their annual athletic banquet.

The meal a tasty one consisting of baked ham, escalloped potatoes and all the trimmings, was served by a section of the Ladies Missionary society of the church.

With the dinner part of the event out of the way, Pierce Craft assumed the position of toastmaster and a short program was indulged in.

George Fox a strong booster for the First Baptist team gave a fine talk along athletic lines, and congratulated the team on their recent showing on the diamond.

A short business meeting was held with the following being named as the athletic chairmen; Walter Maxwell, bowling; "Jim" Gibson, basketball; and Tommy Evans, baseball.

Pep singing was led by Roy Hughes, with Mrs. Walter Maxwell at the piano. The occasion was almost enjoyable event and carried out in a manner that bespoke of good Christian fellowship.

FLAHERTY HAS FRACTURED LEG

Yale Lineman Hurt In Scrimmage; Broke Elbow Last Season

Finis was written to the brilliant intercollegiate football career of Preston (Jack) Flaherty, Yale, when he sustained a broken leg during scrimmage. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Flaherty of New Castle and the former today departed for New Haven to bring Preston home.

Preston has been a member of Yale's varsity for three years and the senior had been picked as a regular lineman last year when he fractured his elbow. For two years he has been first reserve guard or tackle and was one of Yale's leading baseball pitchers.

Princeton Is Favored To Win From Cornell

(International News Service)

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Eleven stalwarts from Princeton, hailed by football men as a greater team than the championship outfit of 1925 primed for the battle of their lives, will crash headlong into Cornell's Red and White clad athletes at Schoelkopf field this afternoon. The game marks a renewal of football relations after a lapse of twenty years. Cornell and Princeton men fondly hope that this game will mark a new beginning in happy relations that will endure through time.

Princeton is a favorite to win, although Bill Roper professed to see nothing better than a terrific fight for his men with possible victory via field goal.

DUQUESNE WINS FROM THIEL, 8-7

Last Minute Attack Through Air Vanquishes Lutheran Eleven

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 21.—Duquesne defeated Thiel 8 to 7 yesterday afternoon on Duquesne's gridiron and a forward passing attack which failed in the first three periods finally, in the last minute, sent Benedict over for the winning touchdown.

With only a minute to go Benedict threw a pass to Todd for a 15 yard gain and a first down in midfield. Murphy threw a forward pass on the next play to Benedict from Murphy for 25 yards and on the next toss from Murphy Benedict took the ball over which added to their safety in the second period gave the Dukes a one point victory.

Thiel's seven points came in the third period when Schilling made a touchdown and Berkman kicked the point from placement.

Central Christian Baseball Team Is Tendered Banquet

Runners-Up For Church Championship Enjoy Fine Banquet Friday Night

Barton E. Richards Is Principal Speaker; Talk Of Athletic Club In Church

The Central Christian baseball team didn't win the championship this year, but nevertheless, the banquet tendered them last night by the church congregation would have been a credit to any team in the country.

A spirit of fellowship and goodwill permeated to every nook and corner of the large basement of the South Side edifice as upwards of 100 persons, members of the church, honored guests and the members of the baseball team sat around the festive board and recalled little incidents that cropped out during the recent season.

As already mentioned, the Centrals did not win the championship, but this didn't seem to drown the enthusiasm and good time of the assemblage in the least. The occasion was a most joyous one and everyone present seemed imbued with the idea that the Central Christians would be in the thick of the pennant fight next year.

Excellent Meal

The dinner was prepared by the Loyal Ladies' Bible class, taught by Mrs. Kildoo, and it was a most delicious outlay of victuals, appetizing and tasteful. A corp of ladies served the dinner in most excellent fashion.

With the dinner part of the occasion out of the way the tables were cleared and the fun of the evening started. It was fun for some of them, it was just a little embarrassing for a few of them, and a genuine pleasure for others. William "Bill" Richards, energetic choirmaster of the church, acted in the capacity of toastmaster and handled the job in a most satisfactory manner. Richards' wit and humor went over big with the banqueters.

In a short introductory speech Richards congratulated the members of the team on their stand throughout the season and extolled them as a group of fine and clean athletes. He also said that baseball was a big advertisement for Sunday school and that since the invocation of the diamond game the attendance had increased somewhat.

The following members of the Central Christian team answered to their names with short talks: Austin Cowmeadow, shortstop; "Chet" Shaffer, first baseman; Clarence Porter, right field; Wylie Shiek, pitcher; Arthur Hulbert, catcher and manager; "Stan" Jones, third baseman; Ed. Martin, pitcher, and "Burt" Evans, secretary-treasurer of the team. Evans gave a financial review of the season.

A. W. Bauman, superintendent of the Sunday school, and a strong booster for the team, gave a fine talk and also sang a solo. Mr. Bauman termed the boys a mighty square bunch and also one of the cleanest teams in the Church League. John Baynham, another strong booster for the team, also gave a short talk, in which he congratulated the team on their playing in the recent league.

Arthur Hulbert, catcher and manager of the team, and a man with a talented tenor voice, sang a solo, "On the Road to Mandalay", accompanied on the piano by his wife.

"Bart" Richards Speaks

Rev. Jesse Porter, pastor of the church, and one of the honored guests at the occasion, spoke a few words on the baseball season just closed and proved himself to be one of the real boosters for the team. Rev. Porter in the discourse of his talk urged the formation of a Central Christian Athletic Club in the near future. "Baseball and all kinds of sports promote good fellowship among the players," said Rev. Porter.

The principal speaker of the evening was Barton E. Richards, member of the Pennsylvania State Legislature, and a strong booster for athletics on the South Side. "Bart", as he is most familiarly known, gave the boys a heart-to-heart talk concerning baseball and the laws of health as regards the average athlete. Richards, a resident of the South Side himself, recalled many incidents of the early history of athletics in the fifth and eighth wards. Congratulating the team on their success in the recent season, Richards said that he hoped that next year the boys would carry through to the championship. He urged the boys to live good clean Christian lives and to play baseball in the same manner. "The clean athlete is always the most successful" was one of the high spots of the address.

The banquet was brought to a close by the singing of "America".

Many a diseased tooth has a crown of gold, which is more than its owner will ever have.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

By ED. FRITZ

Lynn Wagner, sports editor of the Times-Press, Akron doesn't mince words in referring to the recent Risko-Rojas fight. He says: "The Risko-Rojas match did not stack up on paper as being a contest and it was even worse in the ring. Rojas went into the ring with the idea of going the limit and now and then swinging clumsily at Risko. Big John could not show at his best and as a result, the customers receive more punishment than both fighters put together."

The foregoing leads us to make the remark to Friend Al, "tell your readers to keep an eye on Emmett Rocco." According to Josefus Cumo, managerial genius of Rocco's destinies declares: "We'll take a shot at Risko if the price is sufficient and the promoter is not lacking." Rocco is the chap who found Rojas chin despite Romero's clumsy right swing and his turtle-like defense.

Risko, we understand, does not like Rocco and from what Joseph Cumo has told us "Rocco doesn't like Risko." Their mutual dislike dates back to the afternoon when they met in a training bout at Cleveland. Risko believes he can stow away Signor Rocco and the latter believes he can whip the tough Pole.

With cold weather hammering away at the rear door, football will draw the plaudits and basketball will be next in line. However the boys who like to bowl, and play pocket billiards are seeking the warmth of bowling alleys and billiard parlors at night. From now until next summer the talk at night will be spares and strikes and "call your ball."

The local lodge of Elks proposes to promote boxing shows for their members this winter, according to a notice the writers received today. The writer, Ed. McMillen, Hen' Goldberg and Ben Agnew have been placed on the committee and within a few days the quartet will hold a get-together and decide on some future fistic pyrotechnics.

Sport Ritticisms

By BILL RITT

Eddie Collins offered management of Boston Braves. That isn't an offer, its an insult.

New York University thinks it might beat Notre Dame. And we thought a university was made up of educated people!

The Yankees might sell Bob Meusel if it weren't for one drawback. None of the other clubs has the necessary million dollars.

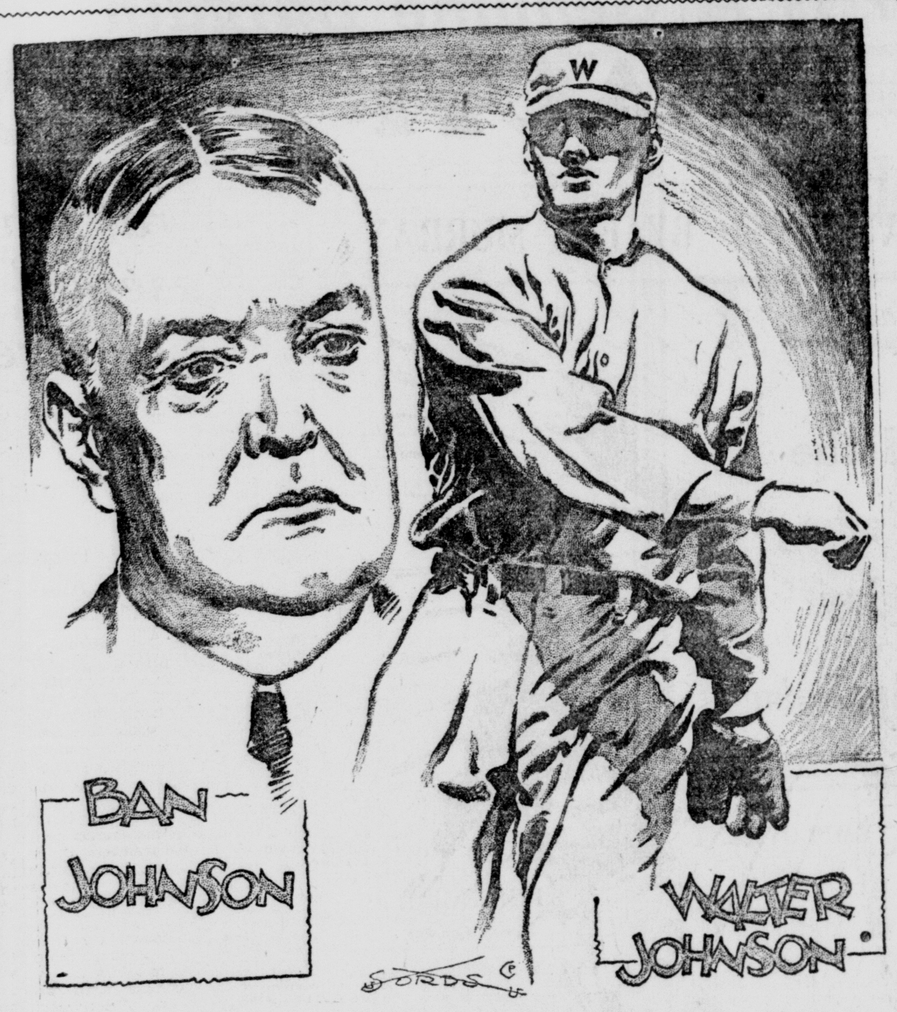

Washington is said to be all broken up over the loss of Walter Johnson. But the town still has Coolidge.

One hundred and fifty freshmen thought they were good enough to make the Missouri University football team. And of course they had to be shown.

A Washington baker made a gigantic pie, using 2,100 pounds of apples. Think of the size stomach- ache it caused!

SORDS POINTS

Johnsons, Ban And Walter, Leave Game Together

In losing President Ban Johnson and Pitcher Walter Johnson the American league loses two characters that will live long in the memory of baseball fans. Years hence baseball history will sparkle with narratives of the men, who, for years, had been an integral part of the American league.

It is a coincidence that the two Johnsons should leave about the same time. Although alike in many respects, their personalities were entirely different. Both gave all they had to the game. Ban organized the league, drove out the gamblers and made it the strongest organization in baseball, and a game to be enjoyed not only by men but by women and children as well. Always a man of strong impulses and fiery temper he made many enemies. In many cases he was right, but right or wrong he was always fighting for what he thought were the best interests of baseball.

On the other hand Walter Johnson, quiet and unassuming, was never known to have had a serious argument with a fellow player and never during his 20 years with the Washington Senators was he ejected from a game for unsportsmanlike actions. As for actual ability he is about the best the game ever produced. He leaves behind a long trail of noteworthy performances.

Volumes could be written about these two men, but confined to this brevity the least that can be said is that they were a brave and fearless leader and a conscious and hard player. Baseball in general and Washington in particular will miss them.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

By NORMAN E. BROWN

The purported revelation of Dorothy Cochran Logan, feminine swim star, that she "faked" her alleged successful effort to paddle across the English channel in "better than Ederle's time," is one of the most momentous happenings in the sport world in years.

The young lady announced her intention of deceiving the public before she started, by writing her plans in a letter which she left, sealed, in her hotel.

This plan opens up a virgin field for development in this day of cockeyed sports happenings.

This makes the "open letter" idea of Jack Dempsey's camp on the eve of the Tunney fight a bit passe. Dempsey let the public in on his letter—and spoiled his own thunder. Having read the letter, Tunney had a chance to come back. Miss Logan's letter gave the channel no such chance to open upu.

Not only that, but if the "confession" and letter are bonafide, they establish definitely the fact that this event was "in the bag" before it started. No one will ever know about the Dempsey-Tunney fights for sure.

And what an awful slap it is at the one-horse shay methods of Billy Gibson, Leo Publicity Flynn, and the other astute and alleged astute managers of this, that and the other notables, including Tex Rickard.

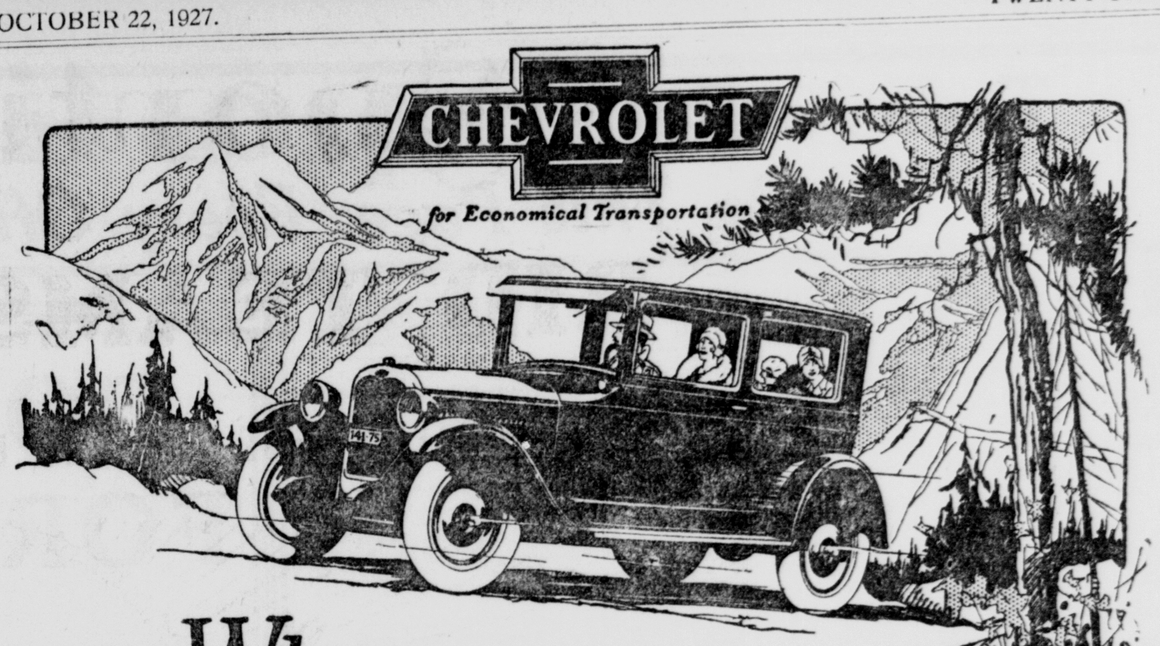

Flynn and Gibson are still using the old ideas of hurling dirt over the back fence. No one remembers what either says. How much better had they taken to writing out what they wanted to say, leaving it at the hotel—and having it get in the wastebasket by some chance.

Had old Bartley Madden written such a letter before his fight with Gene Tunney some years ago, the sports writers wouldn't have had to sit through the thing.

The old Black Sox gang could have saved Ban Johnson and the other baseball moguls a lot of trouble had they written a note on the world's series of 1919 and left it at the box-office—instead of leaving money under each other's pillow. There was one drawback there, however. At least one member of the Black Sox outfit couldn't write.

Had Swede Risberg and Chick Gandil written out their plan for collecting for the Detroit and Red Sox pitchers, the other boys wouldn't have gotten all tangled up over how much they were supposed to pay.

The young lady has a great idea. If the letter pays anything she'll cash in on it in publicity. No Dutch Leonard is going to hang onto it for five or six years and then flash it.

Why Chevrolet Performance is Thrilling Millions!

Never before was a low-priced car so delightful to drive as today's Chevrolet!

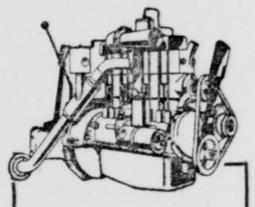

Fast get-away . . . easy, smooth operation . . . high speed roadability . . . unfailing power . . . and flashy acceleration——exactly the type of performance that everyone wants in an automobile today!

And the source of this matchless performance is the Chevrolet valve-in-head motor, a motor that has established a world-wide reputation for its remarkable power, dependability and economy.

In addition, there is all the finger-tip steering, all the positive braking and effortless gear shifting that have made Chevrolet so decidedly popular for congested traffic.

And never before was a low-priced car so comfortable—for Chevrolet springs are 88% as long as the wheel base . . . and built of chrome vanadium steel!

The Chevrolet valve-in-head motor now possesses such modern improvements as AC air cleaner, AC oil filter, improved oil pump, chrome plated piston pins and Delco-Remy starting, lighting and ignition—features that make this remarkable power plant even more efficient than ever before.

Come in! Learn what a feeling of confidence it gives you to drive a car that is powered for every need . . . that is smooth and quiet at every speed . . . that responds to the slightest pressure on the steering wheel.

Then you'll know why millions have acclaimed today's Chevrolet as the finest performer in the low-price field!

Chicago Favored To Defeat Penn

Chicago Eleven Hopes For Victory In Final Meeting Of Teams Today

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Pennsylvania and Chicago square off at Stagg Field today for the third and last game of their three-year contract. The contest rates as the most important intersectional clash on the day's interesting card.

Stagg's Maroons are determined to break a long standing jinx by scoring their first victory over Penn. The Easterners won last year, 28 to 0, and in 1925 by 7 to 0. Football relations between the two schools have been in effect, off and on, for the past 30 years, but not once in that time has Chicago scored a victory.

Both teams go into this affray badly crippled. Chicago has a slight advantage here, as the Quakers have more good men on the injured list than the Maroons. Coach Young's machine suffered a hard beating last week at the hands of Penn State and since then has had little time to record, owing to rain and muddy fields.

Penn's 1927 squad has been disappointing, whereas Chicago is having its most successful season in many years. Stagg has told his boys they can win today if they play the brand of football of which they are capable. On the basis of this season's performances, Chicago, should win. But tradition favors the Quakers

Rick-Overlands To Have Practice

Coach A. E. Fraser of the Rick-Overland basketball team has issued a call for a practice session at the Y. M. C. A. on Monday night, October 24. The practice will start at 8 o'clock.

The following players are asked to report for the rehearsal: Walter Sumner, Charles "Bub" Jones, Frances Uhle, Frank Nocera, Dan Eardley, John Mariacher, Kenneth Van Fossan, Edward Hoyland, Ronald McCoy, Steve Volesko, Dario Baptiste, J. R. Rick and Manager Glenn Doerr.

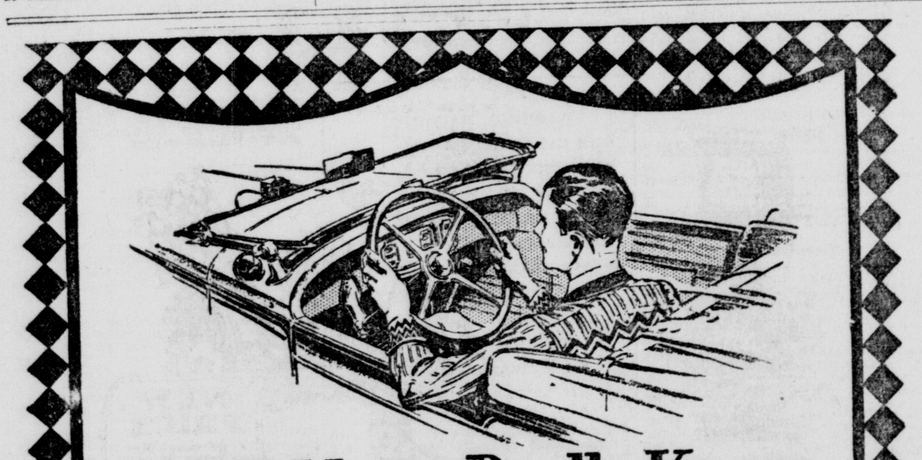

The Overlands are planning a fast quintet this year, and expect to be in the thick of the fight for the city championship again.

Boston kids will see plays for 25 cents admission. At last somebody will get their money's worth at the shows.

Iroquois Gridders Vanquish Braves

Iroquois defeated the Braves 33 to 0 on Marvin field. Wheeler, Bartley and Cramer were outstanding grid players for the Iroquois and Marcella, Thorson and Melder played well for the Braves. The Iroquois line was strong and Braves weak. Elevens with players whose age does not average more than 14 can get games by calling Frank or Bill at 2527-M.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—Otto Reiselt, Philadelphia, retained the world's three-cushion billiard championship when he beat Gus Copulos, Detroit, 500 to 238 and breaking his own record for a 300 point match. He got his needed points in 298 innings for an average of 1 7-293.

You'll Never Really Know Until You Drive it . . .

An Oakland All-American flashes by . . . Smartness. Poise. The silence of a shadow . . . And instinctively you sense why everyone is saying, "That's the car!"

Sense it by the new and rakish beauty of the Fisher coachwork. By the outward air of stamina and speed. It's obviously something new and fresh and different. But you'll never really know until you drive it!

* * *

Come get a demonstration. Come get behind the wheel. No need to concern yourself about mechanical details—just get behind the wheel—and get a thrill!

GRID CAPTAINS

The man who led the east in point scoring two years ago is skipper of Dartmouth's Big Green team this year. He is Robert B. MacPhail.

MacPhail played a quarter on the championship team of 1925. Last year he was moved to a half to fill the gap left by Dooley's absence and this year was returned to the general's chair.

His line smashes outside tackle and his work in the aerial attack of the Green team stamp him once more as one of the outstanding players of the east.

N. Y. STOCKS

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—A new 7-point drop in Houston Oil and a decline in General Motors and U. S. Steel to the lowest price levels of the movement at the beginning of trading today, proved conclusively that Friday's violent closing reaction had not removed all the "weak spots" from the stock market.

A deluge of selling orders awaited the opening of the short session of the market today, and, after recording losses of a point or more, a number of the speculative favorites dipped to a lower range of prices. The effect of Houston's surprisingly poor earnings statement for the third quarter had apparently not passed off, and it required only a small volume of offerings to send the stock tumbling to 144, for a new loss of 7 points, and a total decline of 23 points in about one hour's trading, including Friday's closing debacle.

General Motors at 125½, in the first period today, showed a new loss of 2½ points from the previous close and 7 points from yesterday's high. U. S. Steel, DuPont, General Electric and other star performers, though breaking through their former "resistance points" recorded losses of only about a point for the period. The rails and specialties displayed a much stronger tone. Western Maryland, New Haven and other speculative railroad shares moving upward a point or two. Dodge Brothers preferred continued its strong recovery, moving up to above 63 against yesterday's low at 57.

In the absence of special developments in the industrial and business world, and the continuance of unusually favorable conditions in the money market, the logical explanation of the "break" in stock prices this week, culminating in new declines of 5 to 25 points in pivotal stock, is the unwarranted speculative excess of the past month or two based on nothing more substantial that "pool operations" of various kinds. Stock market experts have seen the evidences of "distribution" which means a gradual, passing out of stocks from strong to weak hands.

Some evidences of a change for the better in general trade was reported in the weekly trade surveys of Dun's and Bradstreet's, but at best the revival has been slow and spotty, bringing an unsatisfactory volume of business to the steel, automobile, textile and other industries. Agricultural reports this week were also encouraging in relation to crop production and prices, though cotton prices have slumped to around 20 cents a pound.

Short-covering and speculative buying of the industrial market leaders in the second hour brought about a recovery in some sections of the market, and at least held up the heading reaction in other departments. United States Steel and General Motors as well as a few of the so-called investment stocks were well bought in this period. Steel Common climbed to a fractional advance above Friday's close. Bullish forces made a desperate effort to pull themselves together, and considerable support was furnished for the market leaders. Oil stocks and coppers continued to display a firm tone and selling pressure was comparatively small. Commodity markets were dull, with price trends slightly lower.

Hickory High Trims Bessemer High 19-6

County High School Teams Battle At Bessemer On Friday

Hickory high school emerged victor from a hotly contested grid game with Bessemer high school, played at Hickory Friday afternoon, by a score of 19-6.

Bessemer's touchdown came early in the first quarter, when Robb ran almost the length of the field for a touchdown.

All during the first half the Bessemer team seemed outclassed, and as the whistle blew the score stood 6-6.

At the beginning of the third quarter Hickory rushed the ball to within a few yards of the Bessemer goal and five substitutions failed to stem the tide. After the touchdown Hickory kicked the goal, making the score 13 to 6. Yet another touchdown was made by the Hickory aggregation in the third quarter.

Dartmouth And Harvard Clash

(International News Service)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 22.—"Wah Hoo Wah" of the Dartmouth Indian rang through this historic university today as the untested team from New Hampshire came here a ten to eight favorite with the avowed intention of scalping Johnny Harvard.

The Crimson defeated the Green last year and as the result of the remarkable fighting spirit shown against Holy Cross last Saturday Harvard's hopes ran high today. Dartmouth however boasts one of the greatest football machines in a decade.

Plan Eight Hour Shifts For Police

Police of the city are to enjoy the privilege of an eight hour work day on or shortly after November 1 it was stated today by Chief of Police Henry Dysart.

He and the mayor are now engaged in the effort to work out a feasible schedule for the men of the police department on this oasis.

It is planned to put the eight hour work day into effect as soon as it is possible to determine on a schedule that will work out with the number of men now on the force.

Indict Two For Defrauding Bank

(International News Service)

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 22.—J. Edward Rupert, former cashier of the McVeytown National bank, and Thomas J. Ayers, Mifflin county automobile dealer, were indicted by a federal grand jury here today on charges of defrauding the McVeytown bank of more than $26,000 during 1924, 1925 and 1926.

The authorities will now proceed to bring the defendants before court, either next week or at the December term in Harrisburg.

Number Of Traffic Mishaps Are Reported To Police

Several automobile accidents were reported to the police in the last 24 hours. None was of a serious character.

A. L. Likens R. D. No. 9 reported Friday that he was driving east on Croton avenue when a man driving a Rieck-McJunkin Dairy Company truck, going west on Croton avenue, near Dewey avenue, ran into and damaged his car. Mr. Likens was slightly injured.

Vincent Delillo, 15 Maitland street, reported Friday that he was driving north on North Mill street at the Hamilton apartments, and a car bearing Pennsylvania license 445-141, was parked in the "no parking" zone. A street car was coming south at the switch at that point.

Mr. Delillo thought he might be able to drive between the street car and the parked automobile, but was unable to do so and hit the other automobile. They were both damaged. According to Mr. Delillo, the operator of the street car did not stop to ascertain the damage done.

John Morris, R. D. 5, reported today that he was driving west on East Washington street when a man driving a car bearing Pennsylvania license D20-530, going west on the street, hit and damaged his car.

Ernest Mast, 607 Pearson street, reported Friday that he was driving west on Allen street when a car bearing Pennsylvania license 18-784, going south on an alley entering the street, hit and damaged his car.

Believe Trolley Strike Near End

(International News Service)

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 22.—Belief that the strike of trolleymen of the Schuylkill Railways company, which has tied up service between several communities in this region is nearing an end, was expressed here today, following a conference between receivers of the company and a representative of the strikers.

It was understood the trolleymen are willing to return to work on their old wage scale, with an additional wage if they operate one man cars.

The trolleymen walked out rather than take a cut after they asked for more money. They also refused to operate one man cars.

Du Shane Street Woman Complains Man Is Peeping Into Home

The east side of the city furnished some of the excitement last night occasioned by the activities of the "peeper" and suspicious character who is accosting and bothering women in this city.

In one instance, the complainant was struck by a man who had been following her.

Mrs. G. E. Stevens of 1016 Du-Shane street, made complaint to the police last night that there was a man peeping in at the window of her home. When the officers arrived, she stated that the man was about five feet eight inches in height and wore a light cap and dark suit.

Mary Kuhla of 1102 Summit street, complained to the police last night about 10 o'clock, that a man followed her from Belmont street to Bleakley avenue. At the latter point, she screamed and the man hit her and then disappeared. She described her assailant as being five feet eight inches in height and about 35 years of age. He had a thin face and wore a lumber jacket, she stated.

Boy Scout News

Troop 15.

At a point seven miles north of the city on the banks of the Neshannock river the Boy Scouts of the First Christian church troop hiked this morning where they passed fire building and cooking tests. These tests were very severe and must show a good bit of woodcraft, as the fire must be built with two matches and the meal must be cooked without utensils. The hike was under the supervision of Assistant Scoutmaster George McCracken.

At the weekly meeting held Thursday evening several dates were set for the affairs of the troop. Next week two of the patrols will hold Hallowe'en parties.

Scouts William Stump and George McCracken are planning to hike to Frostburg, Md., during the Thanksgiving vacation.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF NEW YORK MARKET

By W. S. COUSINS,
International News Service Financial Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—A gradual and orderly, but persistent, downward movement of industrial stock prices, took place this week in the face of a 3½ per cent call loan rate and an improving prospect in a few of the important industries. The fact that speculative borrowings showed a weekly increase of $40,000,000 while stock prices were declining to the lowest levels each current move was accepted as proof conclusive that "distribution" of stocks is taking place and that the speculative favorites are passing "from the strong hands to the weak."

Wall street heard considerable this week about the weak spots in the automobile, steel corporation and other important industries. Fantastic reports and rumors of what might happen in one or more of the strategic sections of domestic busines and industry if the leaders thereof were disposed to follow a certain course were typical of the period and coincided with the aggressive efforts of the professionals to "put the market down."

That most of the Wall street professionals are bearish on the market was emphasized in the activities of the week, but such a large volume of stocks is so securely held by investors that there appears little danger of a headlong downward sweep of prices such as occurred in March of last year or the November preceding that date.

Selling pressure on United States Steel, General Motors, American Smelting and numerous specialties was sufficient to force them downward beyond their former "resistance points" that is, these and other stocks sold at the lowest range of prices since recording their peak prices in the early part of September.

The so-called irregularities in trade intensity of competition, spotty employment conditions and disappointment in the promise of the immediate future for important industries were emphasized in the financial district as stocks pursued their downward movement. Operations of the steel mills showed a decline of about 3 per cent and sales of automobiles dropped off considerably according to reports submitted by the statistical agencies.

October generally rated one of the best months of the year in the steel industry and the failure of forward orders to materialize at this time is somewhat discouraging to the leaders of this and other industries. This may be due to nothing more than an unusual postponement of necessary buying of steel equipment of all kinds, and in fact the week gave evidence of active preparation for a considerable expansion of transportation facilities necessitating the buying of thousands of tons of railroad steel.

Abundant credit is still the order of the day. Huge offerings of home and foreign bonds were easily absorbed; banks showed their ability to make credit advances in any volume desired and the call loan rate declined to 3½ per cent as the result of a liberal influx of speculative money from various sources. Swollen treasuries of the large industrial and business corporations have contributed largely to the country's available supply of liquid credit.

Price changes in the commodities markets were generally narrow though cotton showed the effects of southern liquidation and hedge selling. The oil markets were slightly reactionary, though the belief is prevalent that oil is nearing the end of its over-production troubles

HOAXER HOAXES TO END HOAXES

Dr. Dorothy Cochrane Logan, who as Mona McLennen, asserted she swam the English Channel in the record time of 13 hours and 10 minutes, has confessed that she hoaxed the world to emphasize the need of supervision of future cross-channel attempts

English Company Will Present Beggar's Opera

John Gay's old classic musical play comes to the Scottish Rite Auditorium on November 1, with the same English company that revived the play and played "The Beggar's Opera" for over four years at the Lyric Theatre in London.

The writer of the present day, fortunate, indeed, if his show is remembered 200 nights, must view with amazement the shade of old John Gay, who lies buried in Westminster Abbey with his cheery view of life summed up in two lines on his tombstone:

"Life is a jest and all things show it,
I though so once, and now, I know it."

It is just exactly two hundred years since John Gay's "The Beggar's Opera" was first produced, yet in its present revival which lasted more than four solid years at the Lyric Theatre in London, it is far fresher in tune, more sophisticated in its fun, clearer in its frankness, more pointed, in its satire, and far more joyous and enlivening than the newest thing from Broadway.

If a song writer and librettist of today could merit such company and could sit and discuss his play over the table in a coffee house or "pub" with Pope and Dean Swift and Congreve, perhaps his show would enjoy a longer life.

The airs were all taken from old folk songs, but Gay's verses themselves are pure music, as "The fly that sips treackle is lost in the sweets," "When you censure the age be cautious and sage," "How happy could I be either, were t'other dear charmer away," "No power on earth can e'er divided the knot that sacred love hath ty'd," and "Oh ponder weel, be not sever," and so on throughout the opera.

Perhaps it is not going too far to say that in its kind "The Beggar's Opera" is the finest thing ever written; certainly it has proved to be the most popular.

Harriers To Meet Geneva Collegians

Westminster Team Is Confident Of Repeating Win At Beaver Falls

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 22.—Eight members of the Westminster cross-country team left here today for Beaver Falls, where they will compete in the cross country meet with Geneva College on the college course there. The members of the squad to take the trip were: Orvil Mirtz, Captain Wesley Rose, Byers King, Elmer Myers, David Myers, Ross Ellis, Robert Wallace and Louis Peresyni, and Assistant Manager John Trevaskis.

The Westminster team is in good physical condition and are confident of repeating their success over Geneva whom they defeated on the local course earlier in the season. The meet will be run as a preliminary to the Geneva-Waynesburg football game.

The Daybook of a New Yorker

BY BURTON RASCOE

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—It is not unusual for people in this harried town to ask to be sent to jail. They do it every day and understanding magistrates grant their requests. There are a great many reasons which explain this phenomenon. One of them is that jail at least is a refuge from the fast flowing and often exhausting life hereabouts. Those without homes, without money, are unable to find anywhere a quite spot in which to rest—except in a house of punishment.

A well-dressed man appeared in a city police court arrested on a charge of drunkenness. His clothes were expensive, he carried quite a bit of money and yet he was a beaten man, tired, uninterested, phlegmatically despairing. In a curiously empty voice he explained that he had been drinking "smoke", a mixture of denatured alcohol and water. He was a bit incoherent about the matter but on one thing at least, his mind was clear; he wanted to go to jail, where he would not only be cared for, but where he would be beyond temptation. The magistrate obliged with a sentence of 20 days.

In another court the same request was heard. This was a man who had broken his neck while driving a truck, two years before. Although a steel brace supported his head, he was in no condition for heavy labor, and so he became an elevator operator. Then he broke his arm. He was sent to Bellvue where it was set. But the city hospital is crowded, and there is no room for those who can walk about. He was discharged. No elevator job for him now, with a broken arm, he had no money to support himself in the meanwhile. And so he appealed to the court to be sent to the workhouse, until his arm had healed. The request was granted.

Another diabolic invention is to swell the already great list of those attendant on first-run movie openings. The other night, Al Jolson's first picture, "The Jazz Singer," opened. In addition to the usual battery of spotlights, flashlight explosions, and howling mobs, Ben Bernie and his jazz band stood in front of the theatre and frighted pedestrians two blocks away with the cacophony that is "Ain't She Sweet" and other ditties. The band attracted so many more curious, that it was a lucky first nighter who was not pushed in the face by a vigilant cop, on the lookout for gate crashers and loungers. And inside, Al had a policeman all to himself, as protection against enthusiastic back-slappers, autograph hounds and like nuisances.

"My heart goes out to these Chinese troops," sighed the former overseas doughboy. "Salmon is bad enough, but think of rice."—The Detroit News.

ABE MARTIN On Charmin' Weddin's

A beautiful, quiet autumnal weddin' went gracefully into history at th' quaint ole Purviance homestead, Friday afternoon, when Miss Myrt Purviance merged her fate with that o' Mr. Wesley Mapes. Mr. Laurel Kite wuz th' best man, or as good at least as th' general run, while Miss Babe Mopps attended th' bride. Th' young couple wuz joined in th' dinin' room, an' th' ole historic sideboard that wuz brought across th' Allegheny mountains on a pack mule durin' th' term o' President Monroe, wuz adorned with a wealth o' dried zinias an' maple leaves, an' elicited enthusiastic comments. Th' bride wore a heavy brocaded watered silk dress in which her mother wuz wedded durin' Sherman's march t' th' sea, th' jet ornaments on th' same datin' back t' William Penn's treaty with th' Injuns. Hoop earin's, relics o' Mayflower days, also wuz worn fer th' first time since th' second Grant administration, an' wuz made in Liverpool, England. Th' skirt wuz cut off t' date, an' th' bride made a charmin' appearance. A very purty thing happened. Jest as th' last notes o' th' weddin' march died away th' sun peeped through th' west dinin' room window an' lit up th' groom's gold upper teeth. He wore one o' th' late, zebra varsity suits, forty-eight at th' knee an' th' same at th' bottom, an' broad, double stitched willow tan lowcuts with extension soles, but he does not play th' saxophone. He looked ever' inch a man, while ther' wuz no doubt about th' lovely bride at his elbow. The ring wuz finally found, th' groom havin' it in his hand. Rev. Ephraim Purviance, th' bride's uncle, who drove all th' way from Hastin's Nebrasky, in a repossessed Ford that had 107,000 miles t' its credit, spoke th' words that sewed up th' young couple, fer a time at least. Dr. Purviance praised th' young groom's courage an' darin' in takin' a wife when th' front page is covered with divorces, addin' that only th' strongest mutual attachment would tide them over till times got easier. "I've known th' bride since she wuz a baby, an' ther' hain't a lazy hair in her head, but she'll require co-operation t' make th' home what it should be," said Dr. Purviance chuckin' th' groom under th' chin. Th' hens served at th' weddin' dinner were direct descendants of a hen an' rooster brought from Wales t' Massachusetts by a great-Great-grandfather o' th' bride, an' were greatly relished. Many costly presents, includin' a guitar, wuz received by th' happy couple. Th' bride is pop'lar, an' practically grew up in th' Monarch 5 & 10, where she presided o'er th' precious gems counter, an' from which establishment she got a month's leave o' absence. Th' groom is unsettled, an' has been fer years. He has several things in view, none of which is exactly t' his likin'. After havin' his car gone over, th' groom an' his charmin' bride 'll strike south, as both have a number o' relatives scattered along Route 29 as fer south as Vevay, Indianny, on th' Ohio river. Bon voyage.

Four Fold Is Program At New Castle Y. M. C. A.

Fourfold is the program of the local Y. M. C. A. and more than fourfold are the returns that are given back to the members. Physical, social, mental and spiritual; perhaps these words explain more than a long article.

Physical.

In the gymnasium there are two classes for business men, one class for young men of 18 years or over, one King Tut class, seven boys' classes and four free clubs.

All of these classes meet from once to three times each week. Three basketball leagues are cared for, besides the regular Y league. Wrestling and handball are attracting more and more men and boys.

Last year the Y had the championship wrestling team of western Pennsylvania. Inter-association meets are held with other cities each winter.

The gymnasium is exceptionally well equipped and takes care of the leisure time of thousand of men and boys during the winter.

Social.

The boys' department has a membership of from 600 to 700. The game rooms are large and on Saturdays especially are well attended. Dinners, "hamburg frys", corn roasts, weiner roasts, marshmallow toasts and banquets are frequently held for members of the boys' clubs and classes. The men are brought together in a social way in special get-togethers after games and by hikes and through the Y. M. C. A. camp.

Mental.

Classes of the Geneva college extension courses are held in the Y each week. These are attracting a great number of persons and considerable interest has been aroused. Civic and personal development programs are taken up in the club work of the boys' department.

Spiritual.

Six junior and senior Hi-Y clubs with Bible study and a fourfold program are conducted by the Y boys' department.

Besides this, eight Bible clubs have been organized for boys from 10 to 16, which carry out the fourfold work of character development.

A week of prayer is observed in all gym classes and Bible clubs. Clean speech programs and campaigns, M. N. F. campaigns, all tend toward a well rounded life.

The Y. M. C. A. is one of the participating agencies in the Community Chest fund drive, and it is to the interest of the citizens of New Castle to support this institution.

Deaf Mute Autoist, Held, Can't Testify

RUTLAND, Vt., Oct. 22.—How to get testimony from Leonard Warner, deaf, dumb, illiterate and unable to read lips or understand finger language, was a problem which court officials faced today. Municipal Judge Kinney ordered Warner to prepare to defend himself on a charge of careless driving as a result of an automobile accident in which he figured yesterday.

Investigation disclosed that Warner has had an operator's license 10 years. He is the only witness for the defense since, except for the driver of the other car, no one saw the smashup.

Bok Peace Prize Winner Is Dead

(International News Service)

BERKELEY, Cal., Oct. 22.—Dr. Charles H. Levermore, winner of the Bok peace prize, for which he was awarded $100,000, died here. He collapsed yesterday while speaking before the Women's Alliance of the Unitarian Club. Physicians attributed his death to heart failure.

Judgeship Fight Hot In Crawford

MEADVILLE, Oct. 22.—Less than three weeks remain before the voters of Crawford county will be called upon to settle one of the most bitterly waged political fights in history by casting their ballots for no less than nine importat county officers and for several city and district positions.

Four parties will be represented on the ballot throughout the 65 precincts of the county with several candidates announcing too on an independent ticket.

The struggle attracting the most attention is that being waged for the judgeship with O. Clare Kent, Esq., opposing Thomas J. Prather's efforts for a third term. Kent secured the nomination on the Republican ticket while Prather has been advanced on the Democratic, Prohibition and Socialist tickets after a stirring primary. Both candidates waged strong campaigns during the primaries and have continued their canvassing before the general election.

Of only slightly less interest is the fight for the county treasurer job and that of county commissioner. Three candidates have announced for the treasureship while five are seeking te three vacancies on the board of commissioners. Voters are privileged to select but two commissioners and two auditors however.
